

Conferences Begin To Avert Railroad Strike Due June 1

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The government began union-management conferences today seeking to avert a strike due June 1 on 10 Western railroads.

The Switchmen's Union of North America has threatened a walkout of 6,000 members in vital yard service on the lines, operating west of Chicago.

The union is demanding a 40-hour week with the same pay now received for a 48-hour week. It also wants time-and-a-half pay for Saturday work and double time for Sunday work.

Similar demands were won last September by 1,000,000 members of 17 non-operating rail unions, who besides getting 48-hour pay for 40 hours work, also obtained a seven-cent hourly rate hike on top of that.

Chairman Francis A. O'Neill, jr., of the National Mediation board called representatives of Western railroads and the Switchmen's union together at 10 a. m. (EST).

Daniel P. Loomis, chairman of the Western Carriers conference committee, headed the management negotiators and Arthur J. Glover, president of the Switchmen's union, the labor side.

Loomis' group has accused Glover of making "a reckless drive for prestige" in seeking to get the 40-hour week for switchmen more quickly than two other unions.

The Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen (BRT) and Order of Railway Conductors (ORC) also have the same demands, but they are presenting their case to a fact-finding board named by President Truman. The Trainmen's brotherhood represents most of the 90,000 switchmen in the rail industry.

Congress Gets Let's-Go-Home Fever Attack

Lawmakers Anxious To Start Stumping

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Early signs of let's-go-home fever appeared on Capitol Hill today.

Administration leaders met with President Truman to see if he would agree to a bolted legislative program to let Congress quit in about 60 days.

This is an election year for all the House and about one-third of the Senate. Many lawmakers, facing a tough fight, want to get back home and start talking to voters.

Tax Cut Puzzles

One of the things they'd like to be able to point to, however, is a cut in excise taxes.

The House Ways and Means committee has figured out the pleasant job of cutting such taxes on furs, jewelry, movies, train travel and scores of other items by an estimated billion dollars.

But it is scratching its head over the tough rule laid down by President Truman: Find a way to balance any tax cuts with increased revenue elsewhere—or face a veto.

Short 760 Million

It's about reached the bottom of its bag of new tax ideas, and is still short about $760,000,000.

Mr. Truman didn't make it any easier for Congress to clear the decks for early adjournment by reviving the politically-powerful subject of waterways.

In a special message yesterday he urged overall planning for waterways projects, and reconsideration for power and water programs in the Pacific northwest which the Senate had rejected earlier.

The president spoke out for development of water resources in his recent tour of the northwest which Republicans regarded as a political pre-campaign warmup.

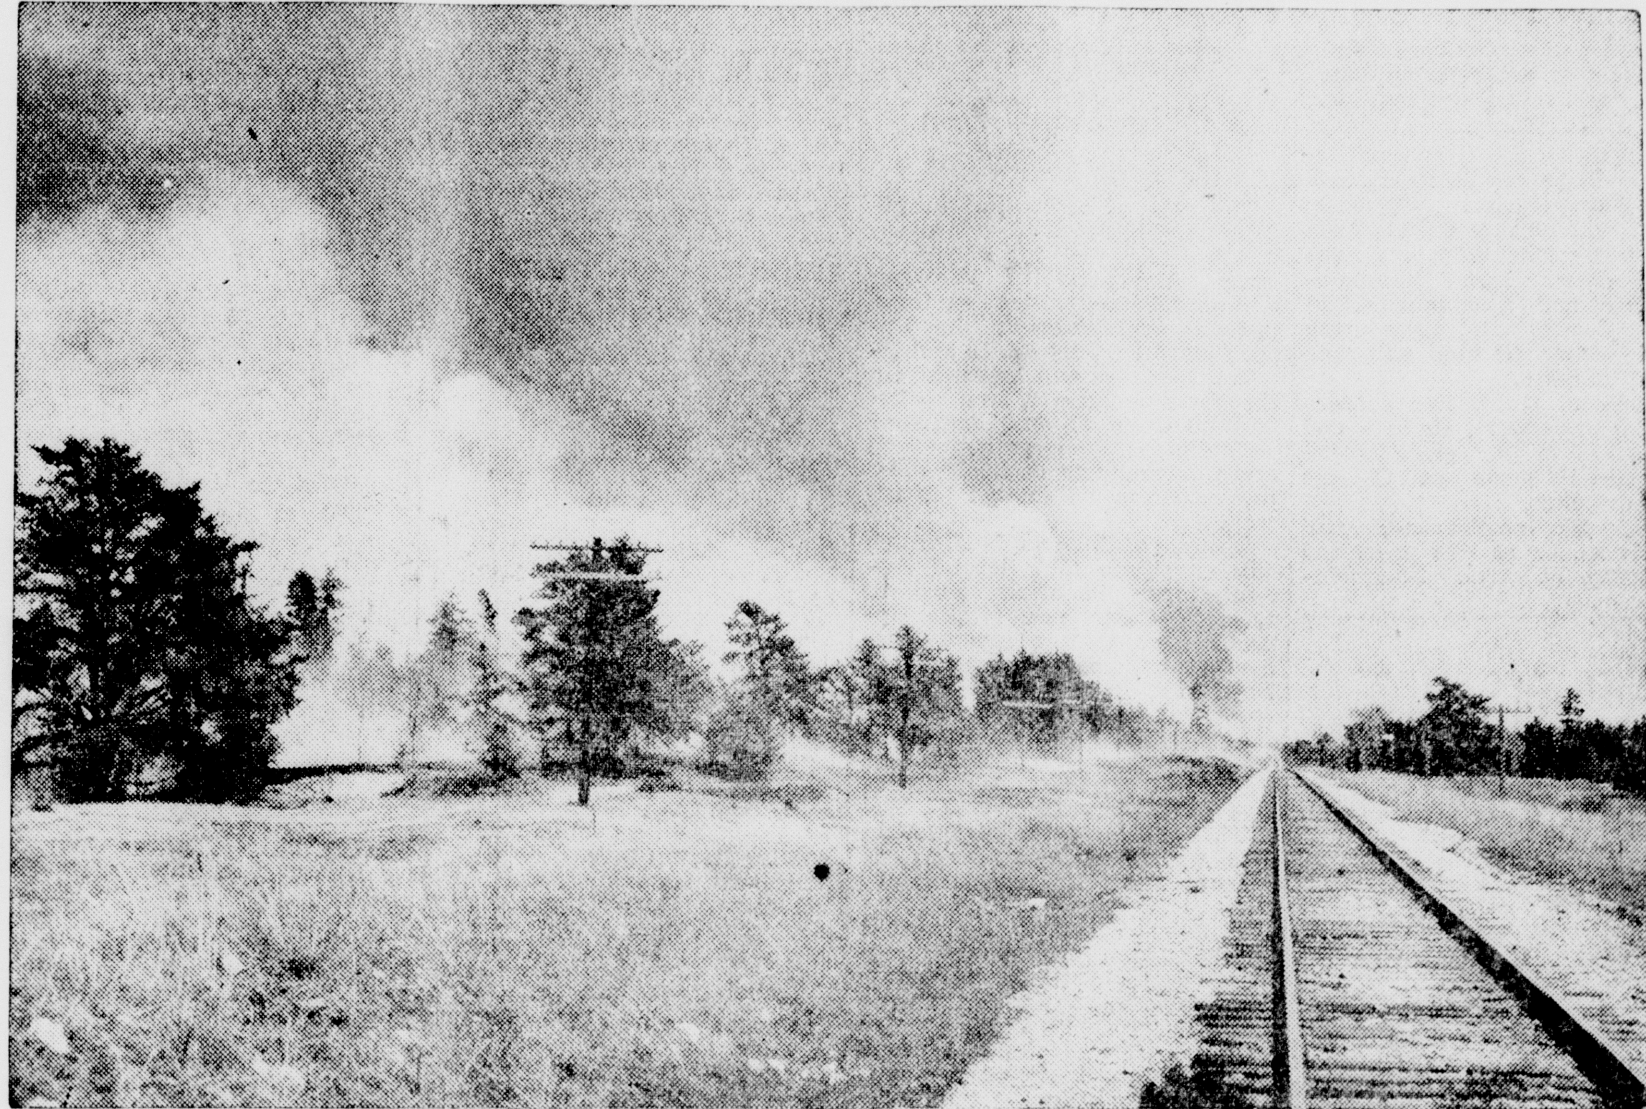

Drew Pearson Sues Detroit Times For Alleged Pegler Libel

DETROIT—(AP)—Columnist Drew Pearson is suing the Detroit Times for $500,000 in a federal court suit filed here yesterday.

Pearson alleges that he was libeled in a column by Westbrook Pegler, which appeared in the Times on May 23, 1949. The complaint charged that in the column Pegler said Pearson evaded service in world war I.

Pearson, in Washington, said he was prevented from enlisting by an infirmity that kept him from bending his left knee.

U. S. Demands That Russia Dissolve German Army

FOREST FIRE NEAR NAHMA JUNCTION — Vern Linderoth, Manitowish photographer, snapped the above picture of a forest fire along the Soo Line railway tracks near Nahma Junction while returning from Escanaba Monday afternoon. With the woods as dry as tinder, many blazes broke out in various areas on the Hiawatha National Forest over the weekend. About ninety men today were still fighting 13 fires that broke out between Rapid River and Isabella.

Menace Seen On 50,000-Man 'Police Force'

Agreements Violated By Soviet Union

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The United States, Britain and France accused Russia today of creating a 50,000-man German military force and called on the Soviets to disband it.

The three western powers sent separate protests to Moscow saying Russia had broken its postwar pledges by establishing a police force in Eastern Germany with—as the American note phrased it—(alert units) to train enlisted per-

Crisis Near

The United States note called on Russia to prove its "pacific intentions" by dissolving the "militarized units" immediately.

The state department said British and French notes took the same general line.

The three-power decision to send protests to Moscow was reached at the London conference of the Big Three foreign ministers—Secretary of State Acheson, British Foreign Minister Bevin and French Foreign Minister Schuman.

The notes went to Moscow at a time when a weekend of possible crisis in east-west relations in Germany is approaching.

Communist youths from the Soviet zone have laid plans for a march and demonstration in Berlin next Sunday. West Berlin's Mayor Ernst Reuter has warned Russia his sector will "defend its freedom" against any effort to "suddenly overrun free Berlin."

Acheson To Report

Secretary Acheson is to give congress a report next week on the discussions that led to the decision to send the notes.

It was announced that members of congress will hear the secretary of state at a closed meeting on Wednesday of next week.

The United States note said of the German force:

"It is not an ordinary police force, and it does not have ordinary police duties."

"It receives basic infantry, artillery, and armored training, and is equipped with military weapons including machine guns, howitzers, anti-aircraft cannon, mortars, and tanks."

"It must be regarded, therefore, as a military force."

The American note also said that by creating the force Russia has "destroyed world confidence in the sincerity of its promises" man army or an internal security "as to its pacific intentions."

Force Well Armed

Note went on to say that if Russia wants to restore some measure of confidence in its assertions of peaceful intentions, "it cannot fail to dissolve immediately the militarized units which it has set up in Eastern Germany."

In releasing the note, the state department made available to re-

Sinatra Comes Home With Gifts For Wife

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Frank Sinatra's swank suburban home was due for a visitor sometime today—Frankie Boy himself bearing gifts.

The slim crooner returned by air last night from a vacation on which he saw glamor queen Ava Gardner in Spain.

From Paris he brought his estranged wife, Nancy, a gold charm bracelet with a tiny "Eiffel Tower and stuff" on it.

For their three youngsters he had a little music box from Paris and toys from New York City.

Reporters asked if there might be a reconciliation with his wife, who has filed a separate maintenance suit.

"I'd rather not answer that," he said.

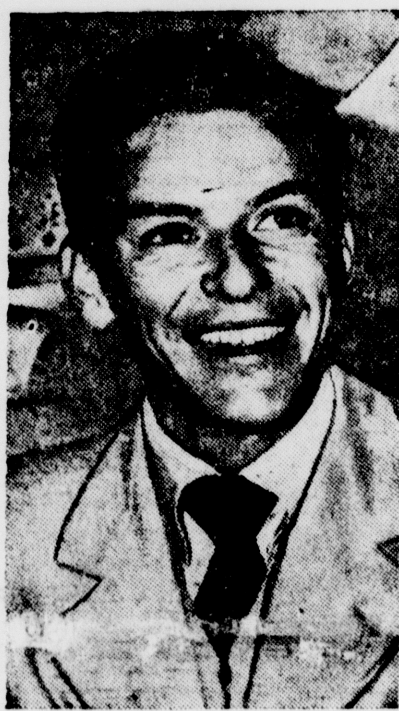

Sinatra is here for 24 hours to discuss a picture. He returns to New York by TWA tonight for a television show Saturday with Bob Hope.

What about his reported romance with Ava?

"No comment," Frankie replied abruptly.

He denied a report he had taken her an emerald necklace worth $10,000.

What he did take Miss Gardner, he said, was "12 bottles of coke, some chewing gum, a magazine and two pounds of chocolate. She wrote and asked me to bring them."

Death Toll 60 In Peru Quake

CUZCO, Peru—(AP)—Offers of help came from all parts of the Americas today for this thousand-year-old city, digging itself out of earthquake-strewn rubble which was expected eventually to yield 60 or more bodies.

From as far away as Washington and Santiago, Chile, came sympathy and aid for the survivors of the violent quake Sunday which left centuries-old historic buildings in ruins.

Peru's president, Brig. Gen. Manuel Odría, with his ministers of public education and public works, was flying here today from Lima after a cabinet meeting yesterday which voted 3,000,000 soles (about $200,000) for relief and rehabilitation.

So far 43 bodies have been recovered. City officials said the death list was expected to total at least 60. About 250 were injured.

One visitor to Cuzco estimated that the city of 45,000 was 90 per cent destroyed. He said most of the dead had been struck or buried by stones falling from church towers.

Firehouse Condemned

LISBON, N. Y.—(AP)—The fire-fighting equipment for this village of 250 will be housed in a public garage for a while. The fire house is a fire hazard, state inspectors say.

Big Relief Job Faces Winnipeg As River Drops

WINNIPEG—(AP)—The raging Red River dropped steadily from its flood crest today, and Winnipeg, catching its breath, braced itself for the task of relief and rehabilitation.

Barring a heavy, prolonged rain, the worst seemed over for the twin cities of Winnipeg and St. Boniface. Public and official attention was focused on a gigantic job.

The homes of 80,000 persons have been damaged or destroyed by the floods, worst in more than 100 years for the Red River Valley.

About 100,000 refugees have fled the flood zones. With every inch the flood crest falls, harried refugees return to assess the wreckage of their homes.

The army has warned of a grave risk of epidemic disease if flooded homes are occupied before decontamination. Some of the homes have been under muddy water for a month.

What's New In The Press!

(Eighteenth in a series of articles on what's new in the Escanaba Daily Press).

Among other things, we have two services of interest to the passerby at the Escanaba Daily Press Sixth and Ludington street location.

We're referring to the overnight box at the upper right hand side of the front entrance and to the bulletin board at the front window of the Press' business office.

The overnight box is there for a specific purpose and we hope you'll make good use of it. If you have a news item, advertisement, letter or paper of any sort that you want to turn in at night, just drop it in the overnight slot at the front door.

Of course, if it's in the daytime when we're open for business, stop in and say hello while you're at it. But if it's at night and we're closed, use the overnight slot. It's there for your convenience.

The bulletin board features local, state, national and international news pictures of importance—with emphasis, of course, on local pictures. Today, for instance, the board showed a big glossy print of the Wilfred Sykes, the world's largest fresh water ore carrier, photographed during its visit to Escanaba. Others were the on-the-scene manhunt pictures used in yesterday's Escanaba Daily Press.

Get acquainted with our bulletin board the next time you pass by. You'll find it fresh and new. It's just one of the many ways we want to serve you.

Gang Guns Get 'Big Ear' Again

FAIRFIELD, Ill.—(AP)—"Big Ear" Shelton, last of the notorious Shelton Brothers, was shot in the right forearm yesterday afternoon.

Last May 24 he was shot in the back and seriously wounded as he ate in a gambling house just off Fairfield Square.

Yesterday he and his nephew "Little Earl" Shelton were motoring through Pond Creek neighborhood. A shot ripped through the windshield and into "Big Ear's" arm. Another slug hit the rear of the car.

Treated at a doctor's office, Earl said he hadn't seen his assailant, but that the shots sounded like they came from a machine gun.

Earl's brother Carl was shot and killed in the same area in October, 1947. Another brother, Bernie, was murdered nine months later near Peoria, Ill. Both slayings are unsolved.

During the twenties the three Shelton Brothers and their gang carried on a racket warfare, using armored trucks and a plane to battle rivals over several Illinois counties. Authorities estimated 40 men lost their lives in the struggles.

Government Claims GE Has Monopoly On Making Light Bulbs

TRENTON, N. J.—(AP)—The U. S. government is seeking a court order which would force the General Electric company to get rid of half its facilities for making electric light bulbs.

Judge Philip Forman, who was asked yesterday to approve the degree, convicted GE and eight other lamp makers in Jan. 1949 of violating the Sherman anti-trust act by combining to help GE maintain a monopoly.

The government seeks a 50 per cent cut in production facilities for making large and miniature bulbs, including Christmas tree lamps, as well as the manufacture of glass and various parts that go into a bulb.

Renewal Of Draft Inductions Foreseen As Enlistments Drop

INDIANAPOLIS—(AP)—Draft inductions may be necessary soon, says the nation's selective service director, because military enlistments have been slumping.

Major Gen. Lewis B. Hershey said yesterday that manpower experts in Washington are worrying about the recruiting slump. He was here inspecting the selective service organization.

However, Gen. Hershey said no inductions will be ordered until after congress has taken action on extending the peacetime draft law beyond June 24.

Lansing Lawmakers Create 20 Special Snoop Committees

LANSING—(AP)—Michigan's legislators went home in a highly investigative frame of mind, a check showed today.

The lawmakers created 20 special committees to investigate and study various aspects of Michigan life in the interim before the 1951 session.

The Senate was more proboscious. It created 14 and the House six. They include committees to:

Study the feasibility of staggering issuance of liquor licenses instead of having them all fall due on May 1.

Study state revenues and possible new sources.

Study the state's mental health problem and the proper solution of it.

Study unemployment compensation.

Study pensions allowed state employees in the lower-salary brackets.

Study the cost of state government.

Aid To Formosa May Continue

By SPENCER MOOSA

TAIPEI—(AP)—Dr. Raymond Moyer, head of the ECA in Formosa, said today Washington had requested his views on continued American aid to China.

The ECA program for Formosa is scheduled to end June 30.

Dr. Moyer said the request for his advice was "sent presumably in expectation of favorable action" by Congress on a proposal to extend aid to Formosa. He added "this appears to indicate that ECA in Washington is not closing down the program in Formosa."

Moyer denied reports that his office had been alerted to close.

A quick survey by the Associated Press showed no American in this Nationalist capital was preparing to leave. None seemed worried about any impending crisis.

The U. S. consulate has suggested that Americans without any compelling reason to remain should leave while normal transportation is available.

Most Americans—business men, missionaries and staffs of official agencies—plan to leave if Red invasion seems imminent.

Wallace Party Plans To Picket For FEPC

NEW YORK—(AP)—Henry A. Wallace's Progressive Party announced yesterday it will stage a marathon demonstration outside the U. S. Senate office building for a fair employment practices commission.

The demonstration—called a "people's vigil for FEPC"—will start tomorrow, the party's executive committee said.

Detroit Musician Freed In Killing Crippled Daughter

DETROIT—(AP)—Former musician Eugene Braunsdorf, who put his crippled daughter to death, was found innocent yesterday.

"... by reason of insanity," decided his jury of nine women and three men.

To a still and tense court room the jury brought the verdict after deliberating two hours over Detroit's celebrated "mercy slaying" case.

The decision, capping two weeks and three days of trial, exonerated the 52-year-old bass fiddle player of a murder charge.

Almost exactly a year previously Braunsdorf had shot and killed his daughter, Virginia, 29, a hopeless cripple.

Between the gunshots, as he had told his story, he had sought to comfort the spastic paralyzed girl.

Today Braunsdorf remained in official custody.

Technically, he was under commitment "for the rest of your natural life" to the state hospital for the insane at Ionia.

As required by law, Judge Gerald W. Groat so ordered directly after the verdict of innocent.

However, legal machinery was set in motion immediately to set Braunsdorf free. A new sanity commission will be named to examine him. Already a sanity commission had found the defendant sane to stand trial.

The jury's verdict of insanity applied to the time that Braunsdorf slew his child.

Braunsdorf's defense had been temporary insanity brought on by worry over Virginia's future.

He had lost his musician's job when the Detroit Symphony orchestra folded, he had been forced to sell his florist business at a $3,000 loss, he had undergone operations for his own ill health.

Discuss Labor Under T-H Law

Rotary Club Hears O. S. Hoebreckx

If the Wagner Act was put through for the benefit of the unions, the Taft-Hartley Act "is a Magna Charta for the individual workers and the public at large," O. S. Hoebreckx, Milwaukee industrial relations counselor, told the Escanaba Rotary club at its meeting yesterday.

Industrial peace cannot be obtained by legislation, but through legislation an effort can be made to bring about agreement in an atmosphere of peace and fair play, said the speaker. The title of his talk was "The Reasons Behind the Taft-Hartley Act."

Unions do not like the Taft-Hartley Act because it brings some measure of control to them. "It is a modest attempt to bring a modest balance between unions, the employers, and the public," he said. Union leaders, however, have branded the act as a bad piece of legislation. The majority in the House and the Senate voted to over-ride the president's veto of the Taft-Hartley Act, he pointed out.

Protects the Individual Briefly, the Taft-Hartley Act in some of its more important phases gives independent unions the same consideration as affiliated unions; permits the individual employee a right to present his own grievance and to speak in his own behalf; and takes foremen (who are considered by employers as part of management) out of the class of union employees.

Individuals and groups may now and representation in "no union status, and the act protects the individual employee who does not want to join a union. It permits union shop, but not closed shop agreements.

Provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act calling for bargaining in good faith have, however been violated by union leaders, said the speaker, and cited the national steel and mine strikes as examples. The new act gives the president power to halt a strike in national emergencies, but this provision has not been invoked.

Not "Slave Labor" The new act also prevents unions from calling for an election often than once a year, where it was formerly possible for a union to call for a referendum every few months.

About 97 per cent of the union referendums held favor a union shop, the speaker said. Under the new statute it is unfair for a union to picket a non-union shop, or in a union shop to force an employer to discharge a non-union employee.

The Taft-Hartley Act make unions now subject to suit in federal courts for violations of contract. Shortly after the act was adopted, however, many employers signed contracts in which they agreed not to sue. The speaker said he considered this "unfortunate and wrong."

Usually the union's only obligation in a contract is an agreement not to strike, he added.

In conclusion he said there was "nothing in the statute to justify the name slave labor law" given it by union leaders.

Calls of many other animals are imitated by the tiger and panther, as well as by the hyena.

Dixon To Speak At Conferences

At Newberry, Iron Mt. And Ironwood

The role of accounting in efficient management of a business will be discussed by Robert L. Dixon, University of Michigan professor of accounting, at three regional conferences in the Upper Peninsula, June 12, 13 and 14. The meetings will be held in Newberry on June 12, Iron Mountain on June 13, and Ironwood on June 14. Business men from areas surrounding each of these three centers are invited to attend.

Sponsor of these sessions, which will constitute the Second Annual Upper Peninsula Business Leaders' Conference, is the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, Chambers of Commerce in Newberry, Iron Mountain and Ironwood are also assisting, and the program has been arranged by the University of Michigan School of Business Administration and Extension Service.

First business leaders conference was that held a year ago in Marquette with approximately 196 persons in attendance.

Professor Dixon will be the first speaker at the 1950 regional meetings. His topic will be "Accounting Problems of Business," and he will take up such varied aspects as the keeping of records, budgeting, the relation of accounting to control, income tax problems, and accounting machines. Time has been provided in the program for a good deal of discussion.

Professor Dixon is a native of Michigan and holds two degrees from the University of Michigan. He earned the doctor of philosophy degree from Yale University, and was a member of the faculty there and at the University of Chicago before joining the Michigan faculty in 1942. He has also had professional experience with two national public accounting firms.

Author of articles on accounting in several professional journals, Professor Dixon is also co-author of a text in this field. He is editor of the journal, "The Accounting Review," and is active in the work of the American Accounting Association and the American Institute of Accountants.

Manufacturers still ask designers to fashion vacuum cleaners a housewife years to own, or a luxury train that lures the customers away from the one the competing railroad has, or a lip-stick holder that no stenographer can resist. But they also ask him to design tractors, oil pumps, thermostats, and even artillery items.

Young Buzzie Likes Name Of Roosevelt

SANTA MONICA, Calif.—(AP)—"Curtis Dall, also known as Curtis Roosevelt."

That's the way the marriage license will read when young "Buzzie" Roosevelt, former White House favorite, applies to marry Robin Edwards, 21, of Santa Monica.

Buzzie, 20, son of Anna Roosevelt and Curtis Dall, Sr., inquired at the marriage license bureau whether he could use the surname of his late grandfather, Franklin D. Roosevelt. The compromise was reached when young Dall said he plans to legally change his name to Roosevelt. The wedding is set for May 23.

10,000 Inspect Wilfred Sykes

Designer Of Ship Is Visitor Here

More than 10,000 persons visited the S. S. Wilfred Sykes, flagship of the Inland Steel company's ore fleet, when it visited Escanaba yesterday for public inspection.

Wilfred Sykes, former president of Inland Steel for whom the big carrier was named, was a visitor in Escanaba for the occasion yesterday. Another visitor was Karl Brocken of Milwaukee, industrial designer who designed much of the interior of the Wilfred Sykes. Incidentally Brocken also designed the Wisconsin Central Airlines' blue mallard insignia.

Brocken, who designed much of the super-structure, the fixtures and the stack for the Wilfred Sykes, painted the modernistic wildlife mural showing Wisconsin Central's route for the airline's ticket office at Midway airport, Madison. He also designed the ticket counter and route map for the Milwaukee station.

Applied "Eye Impact"

Brocken said that when he began his plans for the Wilfred Sykes he did everything but psycho-analyze the sailors to find out how to make them want to stay aboard ship and then want to get back once they went ashore.

He applied the same "eye impact" to the Interlake Steamship company vessel. A white band runs along the ship from stern to stern at the sheer, adding sleekness already inherent in the ship's size and length. It is two-thirds as long as the Queen Mary.

The funnel, probably the boat's most distinctive feature, is without doubt its most prominent. It measures 32 feet in length at the base and 15 at the top. An airfoil section, at the top, painted red, tends to keep exhaust gases from the oil tubes housed inside from discoloring the paint. The bottom is grey and, between it and the airfoil, a wide swath of polished stainless steel, comprising 75 percent of the stack, puts the ship in a class with the chromelined 1950 motor cars.

Safety Enhanced

Everywhere on the vessel, Brocken has devised little suggestions of security and put them to functional uses. He added risers to the ladders making them stairways; by putting the railings on solid plates, running the length of each stairway, he enhanced the feeling of safety. Even the guard rail at the aftermost end of the main deck is canted inward as though to keep crew members farther away from the edge of the ship.

Brocken designed separate staterooms for the men, each with its own shower. There are no sharp corners on the furnishings; everything has been rounded off so that the danger of injury in rough weather will be decreased. All fixed furnishings are built flush to the decks. Cold shades of green and yellow lend a clean, quiet atmosphere, and curtains over ports and windows supply the final touch of neatness and security.

The crew has access to a library and game room, each decorated especially to its purpose. A neutral gray motif extends throughout the living room and recreation quarters, even to the plates, which like the galley and mess hall, are set off with a red trim.

Child Labor Law Changed

Need Work Permits For Under 19

Changes in the child labor provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act are especially important at this time because many Michigan children will be seeking summertime employment, William S. Singley, Cleveland, Regional Director of the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, U. S. Department of Labor, pointed out.

"The 81st congress greatly strengthened the protection afforded children under the Wage and Hour Law by directly prohibiting the employment of oppressive child labor in the production of goods for interstate commerce, or in interstate commerce itself, such as in the communication and transportation industries," Singley said.

Limited Number Of Jobs
"The age standards set up in the original act were not changed by amendments to the child labor provisions effective January 25, so that oppressive child labor still means the employment of children under 16 in most jobs and minors under 18 in occupations declared to be particularly hazardous for young workers."

Singley emphasized that although children under 16 may be employed in a limited number of jobs under certain specific conditions, such children may not be employed at any time in a manufacturing or processing workroom even though the children are not employed in actual manufacturing operations.

The minimum age of 18 applies to occupations which have been declared hazardous by the Secretary of Labor. There are seven occupations which have thus far been determined to be hazardous: All jobs in explosive plants; most jobs in coal mining; most jobs in logging and sawmilling; the operation of power-driven hoisting apparatus such as elevators; operation of power-driven woodcutting machines and off-bearing; jobs involving exposure to radio active substances; and serving as a driver or driver's helper on a motor vehicle.

Work Permits
Singley advised employers to have on file age certificates or work permits for all workers under 19, because under federal law such certificates and permits are considered as proof of age, thus serving to protect an employer against inadvertent violations.

He also pointed out the advisability of checking up on both federal and state child labor regulations.

If employment is covered by both state and federal law, the statute setting the higher standard will prevail, he explained.

Fire Unit Inspects 347 Business Places; Make 75 Rechecks

A total of 347 complete inspections of business places in Escanaba have been made this spring, Capt. Clarence Schrader of the Escanaba fire department reported today. Of that total, 75 will be rechecked, to see that recommendations were carried out.

Re-checks on business places will be made within the next two weeks. All recommendations given by inspecting officers should be completely carried out by the time superior officers recheck the buildings.

History Group Hears Sawyer

Delegates To Attend U. P. Conference

Meeting last night in Carnegie Public Library, members of the Delta County Historical society heard Carl Sawyer, author of "A History of Lumbering in Delta County" describe how he obtained information for the paper now on file with the Society.

Purpose of the talk was to better acquaint the members with methods employed in gathering historical data, the necessary cross-checking to verify the information, and where to look for sources of information. The recollections of older residents of the community, material from writings of an earlier period, and official county records were all used in the preparation of the history.

Frank Bender, Jr., historical society president, reported that Delta county will be represented at an Upper Peninsula history conference to be held at Marquette Saturday, May 27. Delta county will also have exhibit at the conference.

Planning to attend the U. P. meeting are Mr. and Mrs. Bender, Ford River; Mrs. Theodore Farrell, Charles L. Folio, Mr. and Mrs. George Jensen, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Jensen, of Escanaba; Peder Pedersen, Mrs. Sheldon Cobb, and others of Stonington; and Arvid Mustonen of Rock.

Mustonen presented to the historical society old photographs of early-day Rock residents and an Indian copper knife, the latter found about 15 years ago by Arvo Kulkki on his farm.

Briefly Told

Reckless Driving—Fred Lueneburg of 524 South 19th street was ticketed by Escanaba police for reckless driving last night. Lueneburg allegedly knocked down mail boxes on the left side of the 2100 block of South Fifth avenue, while traveling east.

Bicycle Lights—Escanaba police ticketed 14 youngsters who did not have proper lighting apparatus on their bicycles last night. M. F. Ettenhofer, police chief, advises bicycle riders that they must have a light on the front of the bicycle, red reflectors in the rear, and a license plate.

Pleasure Pains—Thousands of Delta County residents took time out yesterday to go aboard the sleek Wilfred Sykes, but, according to police reports, quite a few were away longer than even the most crowd-conscious had anticipated. Long after midnight, wreckers were pulling cars out of soft dirt on the road into the coal docks. Several cars had been stuck for hours. City police were on duty throughout the openhouse at the boat. Night duty officers reported for duty early in the afternoon and day officers worked until late last night assisting pedestrians and motorists going to see the new ore boat. Three special police from the Chicago and Northwestern yards in Chicago were up to control train traffic at the crossing near the coal dock.

Speakers at the U. P. History Conference at Marquette will include Dr. Lewis Beeson, Lansing, secretary of the Michigan Historical Society; Dr. Roland H. Maybee, Mt. Pleasant, Michigan Historical Society president; and Dr. James O. Knauss, Kalamazoo, president of the Michigan Historical Commission.

Congressional O. K. Raises Hopes For Deepening Manistique Harbor

CONGRESSIONAL authorization for deepening the harbor at Manistique, included in a water projects bill signed into law by President Truman is the first essential step in the realization of a project for which Manistique residents long have clamored.

Unfortunately congressional authorization does not automatically assure that the project will soon be started. Funds must still be appropriated for that purpose and in the past, congress has shown less reluctance to authorize waterfront development projects than to appropriate the money for them.

Manistique is fortunate in possessing a Lake Michigan port that is open to navigation throughout the year. The harbor is a tricky one, however, too shallow in several places, with the result that more than one freighter has gone aground within the breakwater. Because of that fact, premium rates are established for freight shipments to Manistique.

The deepening of the Manistique harbor, when finally consummated, not only will eliminate the need for premium freight rates to that port but also will provide encouragement to many lake freighters that now may refuse to enter the harbor because of the existing hazard.

Special Session Of Legislature Ends

A study of the special legislative session indicates that the state lawmakers enacted some progressive legislation, despite the handicap that they were confined to consideration only of issues that Governor Williams presented to them.

The authorization of a Straits of Mackinac bridge authority was particularly gratifying to Upper Peninsula residents as well as to thousands of Lower Peninsula people who recognize the constriction between the two peninsulas, geographically speaking. The bridge authority that was finally enacted is a far cry from the citizens' committee request but it is a forward step, a genuine start towards ultimate realization of a bridge across the Straits.

Broader powers to conservation officers to offset an adverse supreme court decision also were provided in a measure approved in the special session. Laws for the commitment of sex deviates were strengthened in this session.

The most noteworthy development in the special session, however, was the justifiable refusal of the legislators to vote money from the general fund for highway purposes, as the governor proposed, in order to force the need for a corporation profits tax. The highway problem is indeed a serious one but the solution is in increased gasoline taxes, which Gov. Williams refused to permit in the special session.

One bit of legislation that was not acted upon in the special session unfortunately was the presentation to the people of the state the question of annual legislative sessions. The need for annual sessions was proved this year. Under existing laws, the governor can pattern the legislative program in special session. It is a restriction that is far from satisfactory and not within the best interests of the state.

Other Editorial Comments

THE STRAITS BRIDGE (Detroit News)

The legislature's insistence on a new study of the Mackinac Straits bridge project with no authority to issue bonds and start building is termed by Gov. Williams a "useless gesture."

That is hardly a fair estimate of the plan. It is true there have been previous studies of the engineering feasibility and cost of the structure that came to nothing. Their futility, however, was due partly to the intervention of a World War, partly to the findings having been challenged on engineering grounds.

Both of those reasons are reasons also, as we see it, for a new, up-to-date and final study of the project. We think the people of the state are entitled to know what they are getting into, according to the latest engineering knowledge and in terms of present-day building costs.

LET RENT CONTROL DIE? (The Minneapolis Star)

The complete removal of rent controls would cause much hardship in a city like Minneapolis. There are, or soon will be, enough places available for families able to pay close to $100 or more in monthly rentals. The squeeze is going to be on persons who can't afford nearly that much. The city relief department fears that decontrol would bring a large number of evictions.

Decontrol, which is bound to bring higher rents in many cases, is going to mean a further hardship to such people. The situation will be eased when the first public housing project is completed here, but that may not be for some time.

Theoretically, rent control should be abandoned at the earliest opportunity. Practically, there is much merit in Gov. Youngdahl's recent suggestion—extension of the federal law with further modification in the direction of gradual tapering off.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Herbert Hoover is angry and hurt at the way Republican senators deserted him on his great engineering plan for government, the Hoover report.

In private talks with Washington friends and in a talk before the Sales Executives club in New York, the ex-president complained bitterly about the "pressure groups, paid propagandists, and organized minorities" which killed his reorganization plans in the senate.

It is the conservative GOP senators who have long held up Herbert Hoover as their symbol of government efficiency. It is also the GOP senate conservatives who have repeatedly preached government economy. Yet when Hoover worked out a plan to save the government several billions, and President Truman urged its adoption by congress, it was these same GOP senators who thwarted their ex-leader. On the other hand, liberal Republicans voted with him. This is the record on the four Hoover plans now stopped by the senate:

Plan No. 1—Transfer functions of the controller of the currency to the secretary of the treasury. Opposed by the American Bankers association and every GOP senator except three—Aiken, Vt.; Lodge, Mass.; and Williams, Del. The GOP leadership, Robert Taft, Ken Wherry, and Gene Millikin, all voted against Hoover.

Plan No. 12—Abolish the general counsel of the National Labor Relations board. Fought by Senator Taft (though he was for it a year before), the National Association of Manufacturers, and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. Only five Republicans voted with Hoover: Aiken and Lodge, Ives, N. Y., Langer, N. D., and Tobey, N. H.

Plan No. 7—Give executive powers to the chairman of the interstate commerce commission. Bitterly opposed by the Association of American Railroads and the Railway Labor Executives association. Only two Republicans, Knowland of California and Williams of Delaware, favored it.

Plan No. 11—Give the Federal Communications Commission chairman executive authority. Fought by National Association of Broadcasters and American Bar association. Only eight Republicans voted with Hoover: Aiken, Ives, Knowland, Langer, Lodge, Smith of N. J., Thye of Minn., and Tobey.

HOOVER EXPLAINS

Explaining his defeat to the Sales Executives club, Hoover said: "All the pressure groups have got in their work on the reform that would effect them, while they proclaim their endorsement of all the other reforms. I promise you that, before we fail, I shall name by name and describe them (the vested interests) by the use of all the English language of which I am capable."

Note: One outfit that has done a bang-up job for the Hoover report is the lively Junior Chamber of Commerce. Clifford D. Cooper, the national president, has visited every state, organizing grass-roots pressure for government reform.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

American Export Lines will soon launch two new luxury liners, the SS Independence and the SS Constitution, a tribute to American flag initiative on the high seas. After the war, in view of the world shipping surplus, many predicted no more passenger ships would be built for years. . . A detective has been working under cover in the senate, posing as an employee, to catch the bookie who is supposed to be operating there. So far, all the detective has uncovered is one numbers bet. . . Congressman Usher Burdick's bill to investigate payroll abuses by senate and house members has been quietly shelved by the house rules committee. It would expose too many colleagues. . . Here is a sure-fire cure for absent-minded atomic energy officials who leave secret documents lying around on their desks. They are hauled out of bed and must return to the office and lock the secret papers in a safe. Seldom do they make the same mistake twice. . . The senate small business committee has discovered that it is powerless because the senate, in authorizing the committee, neglected to vote it any money or authority. The oversight is being corrected. . . Senator Kefauver can't find office space in Capitol Hill for his new crime committee. The senate office building is so overcrowded that typists are actually working in the halls and on stairway landings.

Of the 33 UDT units maintained at the end of the war, four remain today. However, the exact number of personnel is a military secret. But it is composed of expert and specifically trained volunteers, enlisted annually by request throughout the Navy. Height and weight specifications are not among the requirements, but sturdy endurance is a "must."

Take My Word For It . . . Frank Colby

PRONUNCIATION CLINIC

Q. Why don't you write something about the words and usages which the dictionaries list as colloquial? Isn't the term misunderstood by most people?—M. V.

A. It is indeed. There is nothing improper or inferior about colloquial speech. It is what has been called the style of well-bred ease.

Also, consider this comment from the American College Dictionary (Random House): "Even teachers of English frequently misunderstand the application of the label colloquial in our best dictionaries. Some confuse it with localism and think of the words and constructions marked colloquial as peculiarities of speaking which are characteristic of a particular locality. Others feel that some stigma attaches to the label colloquial and would strive to avoid as incorrect (or as of a low level) all words so marked. The word colloquial, however, as used to label words and phrases in a modern scientifically edited dictionary has no such meaning. It is used to mark those words and constructions whose range of use is primary that of the polite conversation of cultivated people, of their familiar letters and informal speeches, as distinct from those words and constructions which are common also in formal writing. The usage of our better magazines and of public addresses generally has, during the past generation, moved away from the formal and literary toward the colloquial."

ALTHOUGH THEY RESEMBLE the fictioneer's idea of visitors from another planet, these really are the Navy's intrepid "frogmen" in vigorous training for their hazardous demolition tasks. Upper above, the frogmen keep physically fit by regular dips in the ocean. Their rubber clothing is reinforced with a cloth lining, besides heavy underwear for icy waters. Lower, this is a revolutionary way of bringing a frogman into a vessel without having to stop the craft. By fastening a small rubber boat to the side of a light landing barge the swimmer can be "snared" aboard by the rubber "arm" shown here while the master boat is moving at 10 to 12 knots an hour. The frogman is about to be flipped aboard. He catches the rubber arm or snare. The suit is of green rubber, made in a solid piece with the opening in the back, fastened by a clamp to keep out water. The swimming fins permit greater speed in the water.

Gallant 'Frogmen' Swimming Again As Vital Part Of National Defense

By MILLER JAMES

It's like a "men from Mars" movie these balmy days on and near a broad, sandy beach at Little Creek, Virginia.

If you were on hand you might see a hundred well-built men, dressed like visitors from another planet and wearing sea-green rubber suits, goggles over their eyes and fins on their feet, each one busy with a special type of job.

Six of these characters, for example, might be swimming far out to sea with fast, expert strokes. On the beach one might be changing the batteries in a walkie-talkie radio set. A few yards another might be repairing a hole in one of the rubber suits, very much as a gas station attendant would mend the inner tube of an automobile tire.

Or possibly still another would be placing explosives on two enormous pieces of railroad track that have been welded together. Beside him an officer might be showing a couple of other men a batch of aerial photographs.

Another war? Not at all. But training grounds for the Navy's "frogmen," who must be ready for immediate action in case this country should find itself once again in a war of survival.

The frogmen are the underwater demolition teams, better known as the UDT's, a very special type of sea soldier developed during the recent war to clear invasion waters for navigation and landings. Spectacular aid was rendered by the UDT's in island-hopping operations in the South Pacific, and also in Normandy and Southern France. The frogmen helped speed the winning of the war and saved untold numbers of American casualties.

Of the 33 UDT units maintained at the end of the war, four remain today. However, the exact number of personnel is a military secret. But it is composed of expert and specifically trained volunteers, enlisted annually by request throughout the Navy. Height and

Rigid Training

Upon selection the neophyte frogmen are put through a rigid ten weeks of training to develop their stamina and knowledge of their mission. Demolition work, scouting, and reconnaissance are the major courses and each phase is thoroughly covered through classroom lectures and finally in practical application.

The first week, described as "hell week," is exactly what the name implies, for it toughens the men and shows them what they can expect as demolition experts. Hours are spent in tiny rubber boats, paddling against swift currents in the midst of jutting rocks. Long marches through swamps and marshes against planned attack with hand grenades, hours in fox holes with planted charges spattering mud and debris, discipline the men to the conditions they may encounter.

Each student must become an expert swimmer. Before completing the ten week course the men must be able to swim at least a mile and be thoroughly at home in underwater conditions. From an original entry of 120, perhaps only 30 or 40 will graduate to receive their "swimming fins," indicating successful completion of the course.

In their simulated operations with an invasion force the students are taken by landing craft to within 400 yards of the "enemy" coast. At planned intervals the frogmen drop into the water and swim toward shore. For their protection in daylight operations gun boats fire on the shore and fighter-type aircraft dive-bomb and strafe the enemy installations. Purpose of the initial swim to shore is to make soundings which consist of measuring the depth of the water for the on-coming landing craft, to observe the obstacles in the water and on the shore, and to determine how best to eliminate the obstacles. After this period of scouting the men are picked up at approximately the same location at which they were dropped.

Frogmen Are Snared

In World War II it was necessary for the pickup boat to stop for each man individually. This proved unsatisfactory as the men and vessels were endangered by the enemy's small fire from the shore. A new method, however, has solved this problem. By fastening a small rubber boat to the side of the light landing barge the frogmen can be "snared" aboard while the barge is moving along at 10 to 12 knots an hour. Literally the swimmer is flipped aboard the rubber craft. He catches the snare with his arm.

Following their reconnaissance mission the UDT's report their soundings and observations to an interrogation officer. Charts and maps are then made and taken to the invasion commander.

If it has been determined that the obstacles will hinder any of the landing craft, the swimmers make a return trip to shore, carrying TNT and other explosives in float packs. When all charges have been placed, the frogmen, with the exception of two, return to the landing craft. After receiving a smoke signal from the pick-up craft, the two remaining swimmers pull the pins in the fuses. This usually is done a few minutes prior to the actual simulated invasion by the Army or Marine Corps.

During night practice maneuvers, rubber boats replace the pick-up craft. Weather and temperature of water is of little concern to these men. During the winter the frogmen swim without mishap in their specially designed protective suits. Last Fall they operated successfully in the waters off Labrador. During January and February the UDT's participated in maneuvers on "Operation Portrex" in the warm waters of the Caribbean, and played a vital role in that operation.

Lawn Tips

Dear Editor:

Mostly any lawn, even an established one, requires some leveling and seeding or feeding each year.

Bald spots develop because of injury or as a result of holes left by departing weeds. Injuries may be caused by "acts of nature," i. e. torrential rains, drought or by destruction by objects, animals or persons.

The time to seed is early spring or early fall. Excessive seeding is harmful. If too much seed is sown, the soil will not supply enough moisture and nutrients to the crowded plants.

The main thing to remember in seeding a new lawn is that cheap grass seed is a "progressive swindle." Low-priced "bargain" grass seed is alright for a temporary 1 year lawn—but you're further ahead to buy a good quality grass seed, with perennial grasses.

Yellowish streaks of grass are usually a sign of starvation and indicate a need for an application of plant food (turf-builder).

Leaves should be raked from your lawn, as they mat down and smother out grass growth.

Good lawn procedure:
1—Rake off leaves with a broom rake.
2—Level down bumps and fill in hollows.

3—Apply a complete plant food.
4—Give lawn a once-over with a lawn roller, to press grass roots back in contact with the soil, after the action of winter's frost upheaval.

5—Sow seed in bald spots, raking in lightly and covering seed no more than 1/2 in.

6—Sprinkle often but not with too heavy pressure, or you'll wash out seed.

7—Mow before grass gets over 2 1/2 in. Do not set mower to cut at any shorter than 1 1/2 in.

Good Evening . . .

APPLIED PSYCHOLOGY—The recent White House conference at Escanaba on the needs of youth (and the need for educating adults to be better parents) started off as a helpful but somewhat unexciting event, an aide informs us.

The formality was broken and the conference delegates began to enjoy the meeting after a good laugh following the introduction of Prof. John Dorsey, professor of psychiatry, University of Michigan.

The introduction was made by John A. Lemmer, Escanaba superintendent of schools.

He told the story of the two psychiatrists walking toward each other on the street. As they approached, each was occupied with his own thoughts. Recognition came suddenly, and one psychiatrist said anxiously:

"You're fine! How am I?"

SUGGESTION—Stanley Beggs of Escanaba suggests that something should be done about national holidays that occur in the middle of the week.

Memorial Day, May 30, is an example this year. That date falls on Tuesday.

It would be better for employees and employers if Memorial Day were observed on Monday. Employee efficiency is usually low after a weekend or a holiday. It would be better to combine the holiday with the weekend, Stanley believes.

SERVES THE NEED—Did you ever stop to think of the many ways in which your library serves you and your community?

Well, we thought of that the other day after talking with Mrs. Nancy Thomas, librarian of Carnegie Public Library in Escanaba.

The dictionaries at the library have been taking a beating recently from approximately 75 persons who are entered in a contest sponsored by a metropolitan newspaper. The winner of the contest will receive $10,000.

With this prize as a goal, the contestants are leafing through the big dictionaries in the library looking for the answers to question on a wide variety of subjects. These subjects range from weapons of the Roman Empire, to species of animals and birds, and all types of machinery. All resources of the library are called upon for the answers.

The library staff doesn't mind and willingly helps out, finding the quest for information interesting. Some of the contestants work cooperatively in groups; others are secretive and try to keep information from rival contestants. Perhaps that accounts for some pages in the dictionaries being removed!

One contestant, after using the resources of the library for many hours, assured the lady at the desk that he would buy the library a new dictionary if he won the $10,000!

BE CAREFUL—If you are a motorist and do much traveling on state trunklines, you have no doubt noted evidence of the death of many birds and rabbits — traffic victims.

Bernard Stephansky, regional supervisor of the conservation department, Marquette, reports that deer are also among the victims of the highways. Deer come out along the roadsides to feed and many are killed by motorists speeding through these areas.

Warning signs have been erected in many places to inform motorists of the danger. Incidentally, the state does not pay for any damage resulting from cars striking game on the highways.

THE HARMLESS ONES—The snakes of Northern Michigan, all non-poisonous, are coming out of hibernation at this season to frighten picnickers and others.

Largest and most frightening in appearance is the pine snake. It is dull yellow with brown markings and will whip the end of its tail against dry grass or twigs to simulate the sound of a rattler.

But do not be alarmed. A careful check over a period of years has failed to reveal one authenticated report of a venomous snake in this area.

Into The Past

10 YEARS AGO

London — Great Britain, achieving through methods of democracy the result of virtual dictatorship, tonight placed all her men and everything they own at the command of Prime Minister Winston Churchill in the war with Adolf Hitler. A bill enabling the government to conscript all labor and property was rushed through parliament tonight, and has been signed by the king.

Trenary—Harry Koresch, junior in Trenary high school, has received a check for $20 as an award for winning third place in a cow judging contest sponsored by a national agricultural magazine.

Manistique—B. C. Dalrymple, new secretary of the Manistique Chamber of Commerce who arrived here yesterday, will be guest of honor at a dinner meeting tonight. Arrangements have been made by Dr. George Shaw, a member of the board of directors.

20 YEARS AGO

Washington—A searching investigation into activities and propaganda of Communists in this country was ordered today by the house of representatives. The inquiry is to be made by a special house committee appointed by Senator Longworth.

Escanaba — The purchase of 422,737 acres of forest land at a total cost of $1,202,172 was approved this week by the National Forest reservation commission. Of the total purchase authorized, 19,774 acres are in Upper Michigan.

Gladstone—Two hundred and sixty-nine Gladstone students were examined at the Couzens Dental clinic held here this week. Dr. J. V. Collins was in charge and was assisted by Emily Hanson.

No Whirlpool Romance For CIO And AFL

THE CIO and AFL are flirting again with the idea of union into a single great labor organization.

But careful observers don't take the talk too seriously. They say that even if a joining came about it would be a marriage not of love but of convenience.

There are no real bonds of affection between the two. They're being driven into each other's arms by the need for a united political front in the fall campaign. Senator Pepper's defeat in Florida and other early results have disturbed labor leaders, for they see prospects of a pro-labor congress dwindling.

Ash Tray Curse

By Gordon Martin

It's a fact that women always like the dainty things in life, and sometimes their yen for frills can bring about domestic strife. The adore to fill a house with lots of tiny bric-a-brac, which is just about as useless as a train without a track. Like the dinky, puny ash trays which all women like to buy—they will scarcely hold an ash, and how they irk a smokin' guy.

He can settle in his easy chair and light a cigaret, but he quickly has a problem over which he has to fret. He admits the neat-by ash tray is a pretty thing to see, and concedes it's much admired by the girls who come to tea. But it's just another bauble and it isn't big enough, and he's got no place for ashes, save inside his trouser cuff.

Then he searches for an ash tray that will satisfy a man, and at last, beneath the sink, he finds an empty coffee can. But he's right away in trouble with the lady of the house, and the dirty look she gives him classifies him as a louse. So he dons his hat and coat and spends the evening at the club, where a man can use an ash tray that is bigger than a tub.

Block Canvass Will End Soon

Solicitors Urged To File Reports

Block-by-block solicitors in the Frank Karas Memorial fund raising campaign have been asked to complete their canvass this week and make their reports to their zone captains, August Brazeau jr., canvass committee chairman, said today.

Some solicitors report not being able to complete their canvass because some of the prospects were absent from their homes.

Roy Pearson, general chairman of the Frank Karas Memorial committee, said solicitation letters are being mailed to fraternal societies, service clubs and other organizations.

In appreciation of the many times Mr. Karas furnished musical programs at its meetings, the Escanaba Woman's club made an unsolicited contribution of $100 to the bandshell fund a couple weeks ago.

Former residents of Escanaba, who wish to contribute, are reminded they may mail their checks to Dr. Louis Groos, committee treasurer.

Pre-School Clinics Completed In City; 167 Are Checked

Pre-school clinics held the past few weeks in Escanaba have been completed, it was reported today by Supt. John A. Lemmer.

Dr. William C. Harrison, director of the Delta-Menominee health department, was in charge of the clinics, at which 167 pre-school children were examined. Miss Cora Peltier, school nurse, assisted.

Parents of children entering school this fall are urged by school officials to have their children examined by the family physician before they are enrolled.

By schools, here are the totals of pre-school children examined in the clinics:

Jefferson, 31; Washington 33; Franklin, 30; Webster, 32, and Barr, 41.

Obituary

PHILIP ARNOLD

The body of Philip Arnold was removed this afternoon from the Kell funeral home, Menominee, to the family home, Powers Route One. Services will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 at the family home and at 2:30 at Grace Ev. Lutheran church. Rev. Franklin Dobratz will officiate. Burial will be in Spalding township cemetery.

MRS. GEORGINA VINCENT

Largely attended funeral services for Mrs. Georgina Vincent of Wilson were held at 8:30 a. m., today from Boyle Funeral home chapel and at 9 a. m., from St. Francis Xavier church in Spalding.

The Rev. Fr. Bernard Karel officiated at the requiem high mass and the church choir sang music of the mass. At the offertory, Pie Jesu was sung, and, as the body was removed from the church, the choir sang "O Paradise."

Pallbearers were John and Theodore Kleiman, John LaFave, Edward Beauchamp, Theodore Hanchek and William Kleikamp. Burial was made in the family lot in Spalding cemetery.

Out-of-town persons attending the funeral mass were Fred Vincent and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Long of Sheboygan, Wis., Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Nelson of Milwaukee, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Krebs and family, Mrs. Arthur Carlson, Mrs. Ray Palas, Mrs. John Wendt and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Dagenais of Escanaba. Many friends from Wilson, Powers and Spalding also attended.

Bowling "Big Bugs" Don't Cut Much Ice

COLUMBUS, O.—(P)—Some of the nation's top bowlers threw 'em down the alleys of the American Bowling Congress tournament yesterday—but the day ended without a change in the top 10.

Ned Day and Buddy Bomar of the Chicago Tavern Pales fell short.

Day opened his singles with a 270 but lost his touch and ended up with 175 and 200 for 645. Bomar had 593.

The Pales marked up 8,692 pins in team all-events, almost 300 pins behind the Detroit E & B leaders and the team which defeated the Pales for the national match game title last year.

Flint Moves Back Into Central Lead

(By The Associated Press)

Flint moved into the Central league lead last night with a 9-5 pasting of Muskegon while others teams were idled by rain.

Games between Dayton and Saginaw and Charleston and Grand Rapids, the latter a doubleheader, were postponed.

The Arrows, who were tied with Grand Rapids for first place at the end of Sunday play, banged out 16 hits in trimming the Clippers. The win put them out front by half a game.

LARGEST TURTLE

The leatherback, called also trunkback or luth, is the largest living turtle. Found widely in Atlantic waters, it sometimes attains a length of eight feet and a weight of 800 pounds.

Rev. Anderson Honored At Party Here Last Night

The Rev. John Anderson, pastor of Evangelical Covenant church, who leaves Sunday for an extended visit in Sweden, was guest of honor at a farewell party held last night at the church.

Rev. C.V.S. Engstrom was in charge of Scripture reading and prayer and Rev. Sigrid Carlson of Norway and Rev. Glen Kjellberg, president of the Delta County Ministerial association, gave short talks.

The Ladies chorus of the church sang "Dyna Hem" during the program, and C. Arthur Anderson and Mrs. Sigrid Carlson sang solos. A piano duet was played by two Sunday school students, Edith Sundquist and Delores Anderson. A reading was given by Mrs. Victor Anderson. Gifts were presented to the pastor and to Miss Mildred Goodenough. At the close of the program, a social hour was enjoyed, with members of the church Ladies Aid in charge.

Reverend Anderson leaves Escanaba Sunday for New York City, where he will board a plane for Sweden June 1. He will spend two months there and will return to Escanaba early in August.

Miss Goodenough, Escanaba public school teacher, is leaving at the close of the school term to teach in schools at Burlington, Wis. While here she was a Sunday school teacher for the Evangelical Covenant church, a member of the choir and president of the young peoples group.

Experts Study Amboy Blast Where 31 Died

SOUTH AMBOY, N. J.—(P)—This city's explosion disaster has given the Army a chance to study what might happen if America were bombed.

The department of the Army has sent two scientists here to study after-effects of the munitions blast which shook South Amboy Friday, killing 31, injuring more than 300, and ruining the waterfront.

Disaster Not Explained

The American continent escaped bombing in both world wars, and army men have only the experience of foreign countries to go on when guessing how bombs might affect American cities. But now South Amboy has become a laboratory that may throw some light on how Americans might behave in a surprise bombing raid.

Dr. Leonard Logan, a sociologist, and Dr. J. B. Green, a physicist, said their report for the army will discuss the physical, economic, and social impacts of the disaster.

Meanwhile there is still no official explanation of what caused 600 tons of munitions, destined for Pakistan, to blow up at the docks. Witnesses at a coast guard hearing in New York limited themselves to guesses.

Schools All Out

Shopkeepers returned to their boarded-up stores here and glaziers and carpenters were at a premium. Explosions continued to punctuate the air as army demolition squads combed the wrecked area for mines.

With classrooms damaged beyond immediate repair, school let out for the summer. But high school seniors will be graduated anyway without final exams. The blast occurred while the munitions were being loaded from 12 railroad cars to four self-propelled barges. It included military mines for Pakistan and blasting dynamite for Afghanistan.

Huge Buoy Found Off Au Sable

GRAND MARAIS — A huge conical buoy which was found drifting and was hauled into the harbor by the fishing tug Delos H. Smith II, operated by the Grasser Fish Co. has caused considerable excitement in the community. The buoy, red in color, is a nun-buoy, approximately three feet in diameter and 15 to 20 feet in length, used by the government to mark channels. It was found afloat approximately 10 miles from Grand Marais off Au Sable Point. Speculation concerning it included even the flying saucer theory. At present the buoy is in at the Coast Guard Station here while an attempt is being made to learn where it belongs.

Oscar Burkland, Daggett, Dies

Oscar E. Burkland, 69, of Daggett, brother of Seth Burkland of Escanaba, died Sunday at his farm home of heart disease.

Mr. Burkland was born in Daggett, November 13, 1880, and spent all of his life there. He is survived by his wife, two sons, Elmer of Faithorn and Glen of Stephenson, four grandchildren, one sister, Mrs. H. Schmidt of Chicago, and three brothers, Albert and Norbert of Daggett and Seth of Escanaba.

Services will be held at 2 Wednesday at Bethesda Lutheran church, Daggett, with Rev. J. Melvin Hedin officiating and burial will be in the church cemetery.

Labor Leaders Hold Meeting

Gompers Centennial Plans Discussed

Preparations for the observance of the Samuel Gompers Centennial, June 24-25 in Escanaba, were outlined at a meeting of AFL and CIO labor-council representatives held in Iron Mountain Sunday.

About 15 labor leaders in the Upper Peninsula attended the session, which was arranged by Cornelius Alessandrini, of Vulcan, AFL business representative in Dickinson county. Ivan Brown, president of Local 95, UAW-CIO, also attended the meeting, with others from his organization.

The purpose of the conference was to arrange for wide representation of labor unions in the Upper Peninsula at the Centennial program, in tribute to the memory of Samuel Gompers, pioneer of the labor movement in this country who founded the AFL. James Doran, chairman of the U. P. group sponsoring the Centennial, and R. E. Allingham, member of the board of managers for the U. P. State Fair at Escanaba, were among the speakers. They outlined the Centennial program, which will include a talk by Governor Mennen G. Williams, exhibits by the various local unions and other features.

A highlight of the two-day meeting will be a U. P. labor contest, for which candidates are now being chosen by the various labor locals. Entries will be closed on June 5. The winner will be awarded a two-day trip to the state capital at Lansing.

Menace To Peace Seen In Russian East Reich Army

porters additional data on the East German police force. This said the force was created in August, 1949, under General Inspekteur Wilhelm Zaisser.

It said this "military force" was made up of 39 Bereitschaften (alert units) to train enlisted personnel and at least 11 officer training schools.

"The force is armed with standard German infantry weapons, but its military capabilities are at present negligible," the memorandum said.

"However, in the future it could form the nucleus of a new German army or an internal security force to maintain Communist control."

Morale Not High

These statements also were made:

There is a direct chain of command from General Zaisser to General - Major Petrakovsky of the Soviet control commission in Germany.

Russian supervision of the units is carried out by assigning a Russian field officer to each Bereitschaft and officer's school. These Russian officers are called "Sovietniks" by the Germans and wear standard German police uniforms when on duty.

There is a generally low state of morale in the Russian-backed force because of poor housing and training facilities, severe restrictions on personal freedom and lack of enthusiasm on the part of enlisted personnel, "many of whom were coerced into enlisting."

The department said the key personnel in the German force consists largely of persons who:

1. Served with Zaisser (then known as General Gomez) in the Spanish civil war.

2. Are "old-line German Communists" who have spent time in voluntary exile in Russia from 1933 to 1945, or

3. Ex-German army officers who "graduated" from Soviet prisoner of war camps.

The American note said: "The establishment of a military force, or militarized police, in Eastern Germany could not have been accomplished without the deliberate approval of the Soviet government."

"It is an action squarely in opposition to the efforts being made

Pact Nations Won't Get U. S. Troops To Bolster Defenses

By EDWARD E. BOMAR

WASHINGTON—(P)—Some responsible officials declared today the administration is giving no thought to the idea of bolstering the defenses of any of the North Atlantic countries with American troops.

Aside from the arrangement by which B-29 bombers are stationed in Britain, no such reinforcement has been proposed by any of the western nations, a reporter was told.

Vice President Barkley suggested in a New Orleans address that the time might come when "American occupation forces" may be sent to other countries. Later he explained what he had in mind was a possible request for troops from some of the other 11 nations in the North Atlantic compact to round out their defenses.

Other officials, who declined to be quoted by name, were inclined to view Barkley's suggestion as speculation on the future, advanced on his own responsibility. They saw it as based on the troubled states of western relations with the Soviet bloc and the military assistance this country already is giving western European and other non-Communist nations.

There has been no hint that the matter came up for action or serious consideration at the London meeting of the North Atlantic council this month. Public disclosures of the defense planning have indicated the U. S. is being looked to in the western lineup for air and naval power and for munitions rather than manpower.

Should American forces be sent to other countries in a future emergency, informed authorities believe it would be under a special arrangement like that by which the B-29 squadrons in England help safeguard the continent, as well as Britain, against aggression.

Police Seeking Lena Benjamin; Mother Is Dead

Escanaba police received a telegram today from the Fulton, N. Y. police, asking them to try and help locate a Lena Benjamin.

The telegram said that Miss or Mrs. Benjamin's mother had died Monday.

Persons knowing of her whereabouts are asked to notify the Escanaba police department.

Snake-Shooter Hits Grand Ledge Girl, 4

GRAND LEDGE, Mich.—(P)—Four-year-old Harriette Collins of Grand Ledge is recovering from buckshot wounds suffered yesterday when she stepped in front of a man shooting snakes.

Ellis M. Riggs of Grand Ledge said he thought the girl was behind him but that as he fired his .410 gauge shotgun, she stepped into the line of fire.

She was reported in good condition at McLaughlin hospital, Lansing, with wounds in her legs, stomach, chest and neck.

New Turk President Names Democratic Colleague As Premier

ANKARA, Turkey—(P)—Celal Bayar, sworn in yesterday as Turkey's new president, last night named his Democratic party colleague, Adnan Menderes, to the premiership.

Another of the party's founders, Fust Koprulu, was named foreign minister. Premier Menderes told parliament he also has selected 11 other men for his cabinet.

Bayar's election by parliament yesterday completed the transfer of power from the People's party, which after 27 years in power suffered a crushing defeat in National elections May 14. Still incomplete official returns indicate the Democrats won more than 420 of the 487 assembly seats.

Gold Fever Strikes Port Angeles, Wash.

PORT ANGELES, Wash.—(P)—Tip-o-f-the-northwest residents were bitten by the gold bug today. An assayer's report that rock found a few miles south assayed at more than $120 a ton didn't help to cure their gold fever.

The rock was taken from a ledge on the farm of Mrs. Grace Melick, at the foot of Mt. Angeles. Despite her efforts at secrecy—she had it assayed in the name of a neighbor—31 persons applied to the state land commissioner's office at Olympia for rights to search state-owned land in the area.

Favorite Grandchild Of Roosevelts Weds

SANTA MONICA, Calif.—(P)—Curtis (Buzzie) Dall, or Roosevelt, as he prefers, takes unto himself a bride today.

The 20-year-old grandson of FDR and Robin Edwards, 21, will recite their vows at St. Augustine Episcopal church by the sea, with many of the family, including Eleanor Roosevelt, in attendance. The president's widow arrived by plane yesterday and was met by sons John and Jimmy. Buzzie, who was the favorite grandchild of the late president, is the son of Anna Roosevelt and her first husband, Curtis Dall, sr. He has said that he intends to carry his mother's family name.

The painter Millet's memory was so accurate he generally painted without a model, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Who's Making New York Rain?

By JOHN RANDOLPH

NEW YORK—(P)—Who's making New York City's rain these days—a Harvard professor or old Mother Nature?

They tried to thrash that question out last night for the umpteenth time and got the same old answer—nobody knows.

BUT IT HAS been raining a lot lately, slowly filling the big city's long-parched reservoirs and making the city fathers dance for joy.

Maybe it's just a coincidence, but during most of that time the city's $100-a-day official rain-maker Dr. Wallace E. Howell of Harvard, has been attacking the local rain clouds with scientific wizardry from above and below.

But if the city fathers are dancing, a lot of other folk are plain hopping mad.

Some of them are worried farmers in the watershed area. Some belong to civic groups worrying about possible floods. Others are resort owners whose crowds have turned sour during the long wet spring.

Flying Boat Sinks Off Kwajalein; 17 Rescued

HONOLULU—(P)—Seventeen persons were rescued uninjured today when a navy flying boat sank after a takeoff accident at Maleolao atoll, 270 miles from Kwajalein.

The Hawaiian sea frontier was advised of the mishap by the Kwajalein naval base commander who sent a plane to the scene to drop emergency supplies. A surface patrol craft will pick up survivors tomorrow.

A sea frontier spokesman said the PBM struck a submerged object while making an open water takeoff. The plane was on a routine logistic mission.

Hearing On Transfer Of Marquette Prison Warden To Be June 2

LANSING—(P)—Emery E. Jacques' appeal to the state civil service commission from his transfer out of the wardenship of Marquette branch prison will be heard by the commission in Detroit June 2.

Jacques objects to a proposed shift of top prison personnel ordered by state corrections director Earnest C. Brooks.

Under the transfer Jacques would become assistant warden of the state prison of Southern Michigan, A. Ross Pascoe would be moved from the state parole board to be warden at Marquette, and Ralph E. Benson, assistant warden of the Southern Prison, would take Pascoe's place on the parole board.

Jacques' transfer has been upheld by the civil service appeal board over his objections that it was a demotion.

Mrs. Manntie Continues Her Description Of Western Trip

Another interesting travel letter comes from Mrs. Walter Manntie, Rock news editor for the Escanaba Daily Press who is vacationing in the west.

"There seemed to be no end to Texas as we rode onward and westward to New Mexico and Arizona," Mrs. Manntie writes. "We had been warned that we would not like the western half of Texas so we did not expect to see much. What we saw was miles and miles of desert and mountains. The highways are very good and you can see the road ahead for ten and twenty miles. The speed limit on Texas highways is 60 miles per hour but no one seems to respect the speed laws. The temptation of the motorist is to get there as quickly as he can so everyone drives 70 and 80 and even 90 miles per hour. For a half hour we amused ourselves by driving the 60 miles per hour and counted 21 cars that passed us driving at a high speed including a Texas ranger.

Buildings Fresh and Clean
"The cities all through the southwest are lovely. The buildings are all so fresh looking and modern. We've come to the conclusion that the reason must be the warm climate the year around. They do not have to burn coal and soot up the buildings. The temperature from April 19 to April 24 in driving through Texas, New Mexico and into Arizona was 80 to 90 degrees. The rivers in these states and including Oklahoma and Missouri were all bone dry. I will not try to describe to you the Carlsbad Caverns of New Mexico. The awesome strangeness of these famous caverns leaves one speechless and with a feeling of the smallness and insignificance of man. Instead I will give a few facts about the caverns which are one of the seven wonders of the world.

"The Carlsbad Caverns were first discovered by a cowhand, Jim White, in the year 1901, and became a national monument in 1923. In 1930 they were made a national park. The caverns are unique among the world's caves because of the vast size of the underground chambers and their high ceilings. The size of them is not known. Development and the elevator is limited to the 750 foot level although another subterranean passage has been explored to a depth of 1,100 feet. The known length of the caves is 23 miles. A spacious lunch room, 750 feet underground, serves great crowds. There have been as many as 4,895 visitors to the caves in one day.

Visit at Gila
"Our first stop for a visit was in Gila Bend, Arizona, to see my niece Elina and her family, husband, John, son, Peter, and daughter, Ellen. The Crnkovichs love the desert and their adopted state of Arizona. They both are formerly of Michigan where they taught school in Flint and Detroit. The Arizona climate agrees with them and they lead a busy life. They both still teach school, John as superintendent of the school at Gila and Elina in a mountain school out on a ranch. The ranch school has 3 teachers for 38 pupils.

"We enjoyed a trip through the new ultra modern school buildings. They are beautiful and useful with a gymnasium and outdoor swimming pool.

"Some of the greenest fields I've ever seen are here in Arizona. They are irrigated fields, of course, and very fertile. Here in Gila is the longest irrigation canal, privately owned, its length 35 miles. There are 300 days of growing weather in this climate so the farmers and ranches are sure of three or four crops a year. It seems strange and delightful to see the farmers making hay this time of the year. They cut the hay in the morning and bale it in the evening. The largest producer of alfalfa seed in the world is near Gila.

"Oranges, grapefruit, dates and cotton also are grown here and head lettuce and carrots on a large scale. Ranching and copper mining are Arizona's largest industries. Field work is mostly all done by Mexicans and Indians who work for $5 per day and housing. The housing in some cases consists only of a roof and walls. There is plenty of labor help to be had and the Mexicans give trouble at the border trying to get into the states.

Fascination of Desert
"The weather has been lovely. Not a cloud in the sky since we left home. The desert has a fascination and I can readily understand how one can become a 'desert rat.' There is something about the great open spaces, the strange vegetation that grows on it, the never changing panorama of view, somehow always the same but never boring, that gets you. Now I can understand the reason for all the cowboy songs. But not the western movies.

"We are behind schedule so in the morning we will be off to the Grand Canyon. The Constant Nymans of Cromwell, Minn., who are making the trip with us but in their own car, are leaving tonight and we are to meet them at the Canyon and later on in California."

Modified air is being used experimentally in refrigerator cars to aid in keeping frost in good condition during shipment. It is modified by cutting its normal 21 per cent oxygen content to five per cent, or by adding carbon dioxide.

Women could vote in Australia, Finland, New Zealand, Norway and Sweden by 1914.

TEXAS PARITY — Ben Guill, above, a Pampa, Tex., real estate man, became the first Republican elected to Congress by Texans in 21 years. He defeated 10 Democrats in a special election to fill the seat vacated by Eugene Worley. Guill said he was elected because Panhandle Texans are fed up with President Truman.

American Husband Is Durable Item

By HAL ROYLE

NEW YORK — (P) — One of the world's most durable punching bags is the American husband.

He is particularly the target of imported intellectuals, and practically any visiting foreigner can make a fast buck here by getting up on a lecture platform and saying a few unkind words about the typical American husband.

It's been that way for 100 years. And gradually a stock figure has emerged—a wonderful cartoon that represents the average European lecturer's idea of the average American married man.

Picture All Twisted

This mythical fellow is a paunchy, walrus-necked tycoon who spends his mornings in an air-cooled office scanning the stock market ticker and roaring at underlings. Afternoon finds him belting a golf ball around a remodeled cow pasture. And at night he comes reluctantly home to his wife, a henna-haired vixen in an ermine wrap who dishes him up a cold meal out of cans and wears his ears raw with her strident wail: "You gotta earn more sugar for mama, big boy—I dropped another hundred at bridge today."

He's an ulcer-riddled, money-grubbing success in business, this American husband—but a bum bet in the boudoir. "He mak the monnee, yes, but at L'Amour he ees no good. In love he ees a schoolboy, no?"

No, he isn't. This whole picture of the American husband is an outworn phantasm, an illusion dreamed up by foreigners as a result, perhaps, of seeing too many 25-year-old Hollywood movies—and taking them seriously.

Good Matrimonial Buy

It might be a good idea for the state department to hire a few really American families and send them on tour to other countries, just to bring them up-to-date on what kind of people live here. It would be the best kind of propaganda. Too many common folk abroad still believe Americans carry gold around in buckets and sleep on bedsheets woven from $100 bills.

And, of course, the truth about the American husband today is that he is the world's best matrimonial buy. He doesn't have the idea that marriage is just something for women and children. He works at it. And it's a pretty healthy life. Some time ago the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company figured out there were some 35,500,000 husbands in the United States, so they're hardly dying out. They're good providers, too.

Most of them bring their paychecks home in their mouths. Or at least the lady of the house and the kids get a fair share of the take, not just whatever crumbs are left over. Mama isn't a vassal—she's a partner.

Foreign men often jeer at American husbands as being hen-pecked prisoners of their women-folk. But this is like one jailbird screaming "convict" at the fellow in the next cell.

Hen-pecked husbands aren't native to the North American climate; they are found in equal quantities, so far as I can tell, in every country in the world. A domineering wife doesn't require an equal rights statute to have her way.

One of the proofs of the intelligence of the American husband is that he doesn't try to continue the impossible task of keeping his wife subservient to him. In this respect many husbands abroad are still sticking their heads, ostrich-like, in the sands of a dead past.

Southern And Northern Democrats Are Feuding

By MARQUIS CHILDS
WASHINGTON — The uneasy marriage between the Southern and Northern wings of the Democratic party produces a growing friction reflected in the headlines. The Southern partner is like a complacent wife who feels confident that she has ways and means that will always bring the straying husband home again.

The friction is obvious enough on the surface, as in the quarrel over a fair employment practices law. The Southerners with their persistence and skill in parliamentary maneuver have been holding off an assault by the Northerners. On quite another level the Southerners make their demands known. They want high prices and high returns for the raw materials they produce, and if they don't get them they will make just as much trouble as possible.

Tobacco Tax Issue
Tobacco is an example. A little drama is being played out that illustrates very well the way in which Southerners apply the heat.

The controversy is over the tax to be paid by lower-priced cigarettes. At present that tax is seven cents a pack, which is the same tax paid by the highly advertised brands selling at regular prices. Because the tax is the same on both types, the makers of the economy brands claim they can sell their cigarettes at a price only three cents lower than the standard brands. Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney has said that this is one example where a uniform tax is enforcing a virtual monopoly on an industry that sells its product to 60,000,000 Americans.

Makers of the economy brands have been lobbying to have the tax applied in such a way that the lower-priced cigarette would pay a lower tax. They have argued that this is the only fair form of taxation. And they are about to win a majority of the House Ways and Means Committee to their point of view.

The Treasury reported that it "consistently favored in principle the application of a lower rate of tax to 'economy brand' cigarettes." At present levels of income and cigarette prices, the Treasury declared, a change "would not be expected to have an immediate appreciable effect on tax revenues" and therefore there was no objection.

Treasury Opposed
But at this point Chairman Robert (Muley) Doughton of the committee and his backers in North Carolina, including the big cigarette manufacturers and the tobacco growers, went into action. As a result of the pressure brought by Doughton and others, the Treasury wrote a new report submitted on the last day of the hearings.

In the new report the Treasury found that the change would reduce returns from the cigarette tax by $90,000,000 annually. Recognizing "the merit of a differential in cigarette tax rates," the Treasury "in view of the probable revenue loss" expressed its opposition.

In estimating the $90,000,000 revenue loss the Treasury took the month of November, 1932, and based its calculations on that period. As Harley L. Lutz, a conservative economist, occasionally employed by the Ways and Means Committee, pointed out, November of 1932 was the bottom of the depression when the sale of economy brand cigarettes had jumped to nearly 23 percent of total sales.

Doughton, who is 86 years old, is serving his twentieth term in Congress. If he succeeds in blocking this change, the grateful tobacco people should elect him for life.

Oil and natural gas also are commodities about which the South and the Southwest are sensitive. President Truman's veto of the Kerr bill, which would take the production of natural gas out from under regulation, caused deep resentment.

Use Political Pressure
But there may be compensation for the independent producers who exert the sharpest political pressures. They are complaining bitterly about greatly increased imports of oil brought in by the large corporations with oil fields in Venezuela and the Middle East. A crackdown on those imports would mean a lot to the independents.

Then the President's suggestion in his tax message that the 27 percent income tax deduction allowed to oil producers for a wasting asset be looked into had the independents worried. One independent—one of the three or four wealthiest men in the world, with an estimated income of $1,000,000 a month net after taxes—recently called on Speaker Sam Rayburn to ask if there was any danger that the 27 percent would be repealed or lowered. Rayburn is reported to have told him that he had nothing in the world to worry about.

So the power of the South is not entirely in the oratorical skill of Southern debaters. Backstage the economic pressures are very real and very potent.

BURNED UP — Retired Pennsylvania Railroad fireman James Stewart, 81, of Wellsburg, W. Va., found himself stranded in Pittsburgh when the firemen's strike halted passenger trains. Stewart was on his way to Greensburg, Pa., to pick up his pension check when he got derailed.

Derailed Train Jams Grand Haven Bridge

GRAND HAVEN, Mich.—(P)—A Grand Trunk western freight train plowed across a partially open draw bridge over the Grand River here Monday night, cutting all Grand Haven-Muskegon rail traffic.

The 24-car train, apparently missing a red danger signal, hit the bridge just as it was closing after having been opened to permit a small boat to pass. No one was injured.

The engine bounced all the way across the "swing" span of the bridge on cross-ties, miraculously remaining upright and on the bridge although derailed. Four cars lodged on the span.

There was no immediate official explanation of the mishap but unfamiliarity of Grand Trunk crews with the tracks might have had something to do with it.

Ava Gardner Denies She's Sinatra Sweetie

TOSSA DEL MAR, Spain.—(P)—Screen star Ava Gardner says she's not in love with anybody and not planning to marry anyone—Frank Sinatra included.

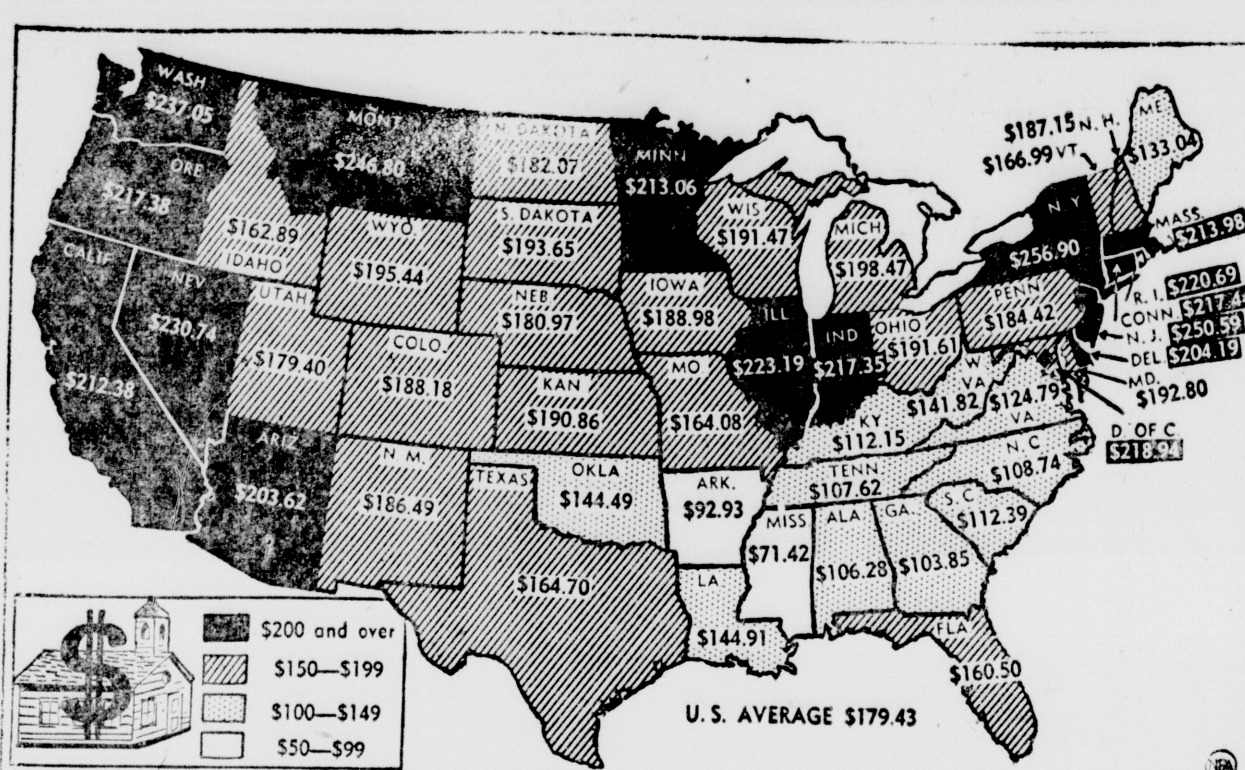

"My supposed romantic relations with Frank Sinatra are purely imaginary," said the twice-divorced Hollywood beauty, who for the past month has been making a film here.

American columnists have frequently linked her name with that of the radio and screen singer. He arrived here last Thursday to visit Ava at her villa here. Sinatra is separated from his wife.

Miss Gardner added that she also was not in love with her new leading man, Spanish bullfighter Mario Cabre, who said Sunday that he planned to marry Miss Gardner and was "really sad" over Sinatra's visit.

Progress Crowds Out 1885 Atlanta Mansion For The Second Time

ATLANTA.—(P)—When John Silvey built his big brown granite mansion at the corner of Marietta and Spring streets in 1885, he foresaw that one day it would stand in the way of progress.

The far-sighted drygoods merchant provided for that eventuality. He purchased a tract of land on Peachtree Road, a wooded rural area at that time, and stipulated in his will that the house be moved there when necessary.

In 1900, in the wake of Atlanta's growth, Silvey's 20-room house was taken down block by block, and re-assembled at its new site.

This week Silvey's 95-year-old daughter, Mrs. W. A. Speer, is moving out of the 65-year-old transplanted mansion.

Again, progress caused the move. Demolition crews will clear the site to make way for a new express highway.

Hopes Jazz Age Will Not Return In U. S.

By ROBERT C. RUARK
When Mama rolled home the other day wearing clocks on her socks and sporting a pair of two-tone 1920's shoes, with her hair nibbled off at the roots, I figure it is time to call a halt to this wholesale vicarious flash-back to the Jazz Age. The next thing you know they will reinvoke the Volstead Act and I will be building gin in the bathtub again.

RUARK

You see where Child's is starting to capitalize on the backward-sweep, and pretty girls will be soon, with the restaurants all out to recapture the late evening sober-up trade they dominated in the Volstead days.

About the hottest thing in the movies at the moment is Gloria Swanson, and unabashed grandmothers—Swanson, Marlene Dietrich and Nancy Carroll. In the largely because she has the good sense to keep some hair on her head and refrain from doing the Charleston in public. Gloria did the Charleston, once. She figures she has qualified and doesn't have to do it again.

Beautiful Grandmothers

It occurs to me that the three best-looking women I have seen around lately are all grandmothers—Swanson, Marlene Dietrich and Nancy Carroll. In the middle of a mad rush to recreate themselves as flappers, the younger dames have dropped the duke to the more mellowed ladies who remember from actual experience just how silly women looked in the '20's.

I find myself a cultural flop today because I cannot do the Charleston or the Black Bottom, and surlily refuse to learn. Also I cannot play the ukulele and do not intend to try. It never bought me any romantic favors when I was a youngster. As I remember, boys who knocked themselves out dancing and strutting the like often lost ladies to unruffled, well-rested swains who conserved their strength for more serious calisthenics in the canoe.

I do not yearn for the days of the painted slicker and the 28-inch pants cuff, as I do not mourn the rumble seat. More true romance was wrecked by the rumble seat than was ever curtailed by television. Rumble-seats were cold and windy and full of sharp corners. Even mild, romantic overtures were fraught with barked shins and sundry contusions.

No Coonskin Coat

Of course you yearn for the 100-cent dollar and the tiny taxes and some of the delightful nonsense that went with being young and empty in the head in a brawny country that was just beginning to flex its muscles. But I suddenly find that I have no yen for a coonskin coat. They were, generally subject to fleas.

The air is full of soot and smog, but it is not so saturated with hurtling financiers as formerly. A man who was weaned on needle beer, dubious gin and raw corn licker finds it rather pleasant to contemplate a sup of evening snakebite without first seeking the phone number of a good doctor. When a man was referred to as blind or stiff in those days, it meant he had lost his eyesight or was literally dead.

We scream of taxes and strikes and scandals in government, but we had strikes then, and scandals then, and I will take taxes over that Depression any day. Going to college on no money is no fun, because it takes a little coin, even in poverty-struck times, to dance the Charleston and drink the gin and flaunt the coonhide and drive the chopped-down flivver overflowing with shrieking John Held Jr. co-eds.

The first full cut at a career, when the streets are full of jobless men, is no great ennobling experience, either. A grown man can weary of a job that pays him 10, whole, round, 100-cent dollars each week, even if he's "lucky" to get it.

FORCED FREEDOM

Pressure by Egyptian nationalists forced Britain to declare Egypt an independent, sovereign state on Feb. 28, 1922, although the British reserved their rights for the protection of Suez and the defense of Egypt.

BEET FEAT—In true Chamber of Commerce style, Bill Duflock, secretary-manager of the El Centro, Calif., chamber, stirs his coffee with a giant sugar beet grown in the Imperial Valley. Bound for the sugar factor, the 22-pound beet will make two pounds of sugar.

Land Booms From $500 To $4,500

NEW YORK—(AP)—The new 30-year mortgage for veterans, authorized by the federal housing law of 1950, has started a boom within a boom in home building. By broadening the market through bringing monthly payments down, it has started a rush to buy land for low-cost housing development.

In New York's suburban Long Island area, farmers are getting near fabulous prices for acreage to be divided into building lots. One real estate broker tells of a potato farm that sold for $500 an acre in 1945 and now has been resold to home builders for $5,500 an acre.

Cultivated fields fronting on the main highways of Long Island's north shore are being offered for commercial sites at $200 per front foot.

Greece Cuts Ship Unloading Time

ATHENS—(AP)—A shipload of 5,200 tons of German war reparations was unloaded at Piraeus in six days to establish a new record for the port. The cargo—heavy steel products including a 50-ton railroad crane—was taken off the Danish motorship "Olga" in half the normal unloading time.

Fast discharging of cargoes at Piraeus in recent months has been accomplished since ECA inaugurated new port planning techniques and operating procedures.

EDWARD HAYNES OF MINNEAPOLIS

Are you an American taxpayer? So are we. Out of every dollar we took in last year, we paid out 17.2 cents in taxes—more than we paid our 46,700 employees and about six times what we paid our 96,800 owners. This includes taxes collected by us for governmental agencies, but does not include the many "hidden" taxes that we and you both pay. Taxes are necessary, but it takes thousands of profitable businesses like ours, as well as millions of individual taxpayers like you, to pay the cost of government.

H. W. TURNER OF OUR CASPER, WYOMING, REFINERY

Are you a Standard Oil employee? For you and your fellow workers (we have a total of 46,700 employees) we spent 16.4 cents out of every dollar we took in last year for wages, salaries and employee benefits. Our employees averaged $4,600 each in wages and benefits last year. They and their immediate families are protected by one of the finest, broadest employee benefit programs in any industry. The benefit program includes a retirement plan to which employees and the company both contribute.

ARE YOU ONE OF THESE FOUR PEOPLE?

You, as a citizen of the United States, almost certainly belong to at least one of the groups that these four people represent. If so, you want to know whether we are making a profit.

"Making a profit" and "running a sound business" mean the same thing to us. It's important to a lot of people that our business remains sound, for all of the money that Standard Oil and its subsidiary companies take in is eventually spent to serve one or more of these four groups of people. From every dollar [we take in, one hundred cents is distributed, paid out, spent, or put to work.

Because you are one of these groups of people, you stand to benefit when we make a profit.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY (INDIANA)

MRS. ALVINA BASSLER OF BELLEVILLE, ILLINOIS

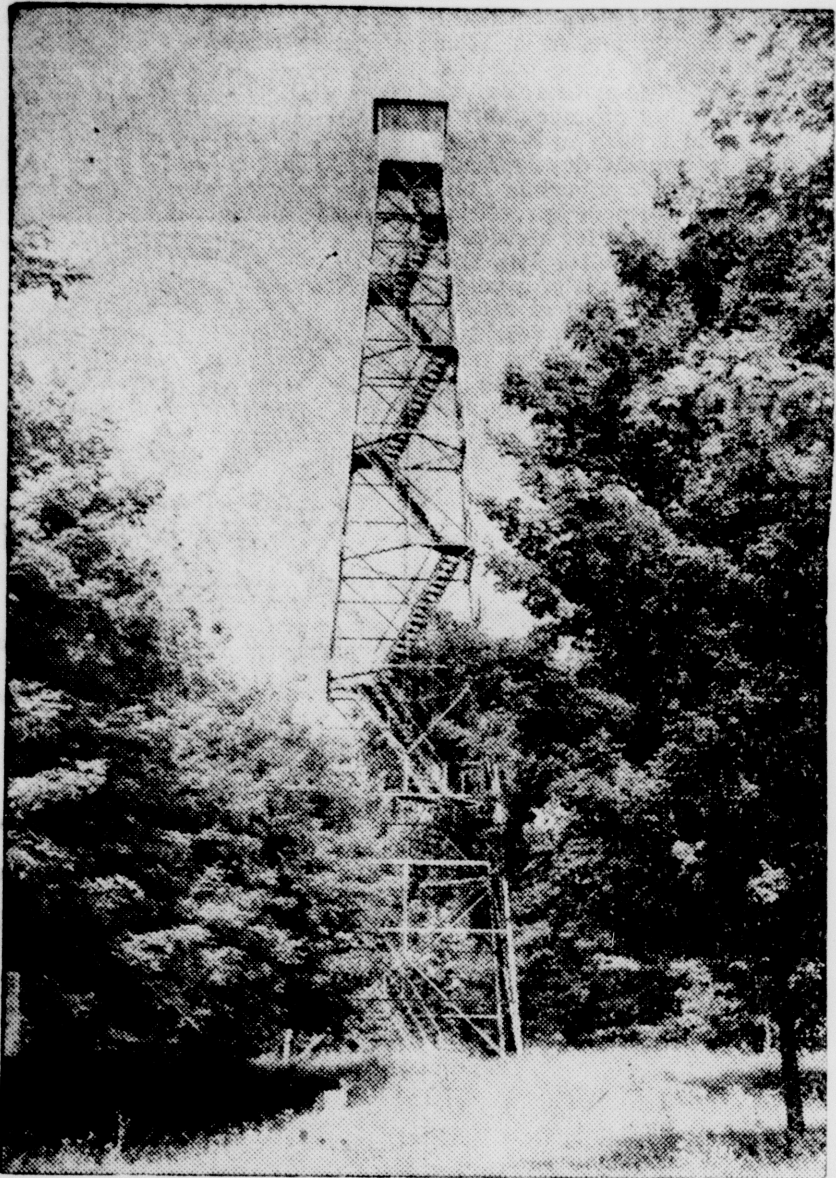

Are you one of the 96,800 owners of Standard Oil? All of you together received, in dividends, 2.9 cents out of every dollar we took in last year. And 4.8 cents out of every dollar was retained in the business, largely to help pay for new equipment which helps increase the book value of owners' stock, the productivity and earning power of employees and the supply available to customers.

BERYL PRIDE OF EVANSVILLE, INDIANA

Are you a customer of Standard Oil, or a customer of an independent dealer who sells our products? For materials, transportation and wear and tear, our costs were 58.7 cents out of every dollar we took in last year. Adding this to our taxes, labor cost and a fair return on the investment that enables us to supply you, 100 cents out of every dollar you spent with us was put to work.

Crews Battle 200-Acre Fire In U. S. Forest East Of Rapid River

FIRE TOWER—The Michigan Conservation department and Forest Service have a network of fire towers all over the Upper Peninsula forest region. Manning the towers are towermen who are constantly on the lookout for the outbreak of fires. As soon as a blaze is sighted, they telephone the headquarters, from which fire fighters and equipment are dispatched to the fire scene.

90 Men Fight To Save Trees

Danger Continues High In Delta

Crews totaling 90 men today continued battling 13 fires that broke out yesterday afternoon in the Hiawatha National Forest area between Rapid River and Isabella and blackened a total of about 200 acres.

The fires started along the Soo Line railroad track, caused by an unusual accident, it was reported by Forest Ranger James Jay of Rapid River. Ninety men were called out yesterday afternoon by the U. S. Forest Service to fight the fires, 35 were on the job all last night, and 90 more went on duty this morning.

Forest Service officials emphasized that the Soo Line has been most cooperative in fire control. The fires started accidentally when a "dead" steam locomotive was being hauled west on the Soo Line as part of a freight train powered by a diesel.

Under Control Tonight

The pistons on the "dead" steam engine became heated and oil was poured into the pistons to cool them. This squirted out along the tracks and in some manner the fires started—13 of them in a distance of 14 miles.

The fires were on the north side of the tracks and were carried in that direction by southerly winds. The spread was stopped last night but the fires were not expected to be under control until tonight.

Besides Forest Service crews from Munising, Manistique and Rapid River, additional fire fighters were recruited from industries in the area, including Anderson Brothers mill at Rapid River, Bay de Noquet company, Nahma; Escanaba Paper company; individuals from Rapid River high school and town, and from Stonington.

Four Others Yesterday

Key men directing the crews of fire fighters are Omer Groleau of St. Jacques, Andrew Magnuson of Ensign, Arthur Lorensen of Stonington, and Jake Landis of Isabella.

State conservation department personnel fought four fires yesterday, three in Delta and one in

Forest Visitors Must Help Prevent Fires

J. W. Jay, district ranger, Rapid River district, Hiawatha National Forest, relates how every visitor of our out-of-doors must cooperate in order to prevent forest fires: The cost of forest fire protection is linked to the activities of the people. On the Rapid River district of the Hiawatha National Forest, a lot of people are active. But if these active people are careful, a lot of fires can be prevented and the cost reduced. There are the owners of summer homes and forest camps. Most of these people reside and earn their living within Delta county. They visit their camps at irregular intervals for one or two days at a time. Sometimes they burn a pile of brush or seaweed on one day and return home that night. The next day a breeze comes up, the sun dries the leaves and grass, and the ashes of that fire may start a wild fire. Of course everyone knows that a burning permit is necessary, except when the ground is snow-covered. The permit fixes the location of the smoke, so that a fire crew does not have to investigate it. But the person with a permit must tend the fire until it is out.

Land Clearing Fires
There are the year-long forest residents, mostly farmers. Fire is an almost necessary tool in the clearing of land. The farmers need to burn brush and stump piles. Stump piles, if mixed with soil, will burn only in the driest weather, and then slowly. The farmer has a real problem finding a safe time when the material will burn, and when the fire will not get away.

Then there are the fishermen, campers, and picnickers. And they aren't all from the cities. Is there anything better than a freshly caught trout, fried in bacon grease on the bank of the creek? But that lucky fisherman must choose or make a safe place for his cooking fire. He should drown it with water, stir the coals and drown it dead out. And smoking—if he would just stop walking when he smokes and put match, ashes and cigarette butt in the water.

Logging operations are an important necessary part of the management of our forests. But skidding tractors throw sparks. Tractors in the woods should have spark arrestors during the summer months. Trucks should have mufflers. When the men smoke, they should stop working or walking and bury the ashes and butts in mineral soil. Camps should have spark arrestors. Inflammable material should be cleaned up around the camps. When logging fires occur, they are tough ones to control. There is always an abundance of dry fuel in the slash made by the job.

Be Careful In Woods

Travelers bring an added risk of fire to the forests. We are all travelers at some time and we are glad to welcome these visitors from other counties and states. But they must be careful with fire, too. Whether they travel at high speed on U. S. Highway No. 2, or at ten miles per hour on forest roads, they must not throw cigarette butts out the window. Michigan law forbids and provides penalties for the throwing of burning material from automobiles. There are a lot of other activities such as construction of power lines and roads, trapping, hunting, and railroads. Any activity that brings people into the woods, increases the risk of fire. Fire control costs time and money. The more fires there are to control the less time and money there is to do productive work. Such work as care of recreational facilities, road construction, tree planting, and the selling of timber stumpage, benefits everybody. When you are careful with fire, you contribute to this productive work.

It is possible to make sugar from wood.

People Aid In Fire Fighting

Forest Protection Public Problem

Forest officers are again recruiting fire wardens and cooperators in preparation for the fire season, soon to arrive. It is the practice of the National Forests to depend, in a large measure, on the cooperation of the local residents for both the prevention and the suppression of forest fires.

People living within and near the woodlands are especially able to appreciate the damage that forest fires do, and to appreciate the ability of the land to produce game, timber, and recreation possibilities, when fires are eliminated. Forest residents are in a position to know and so generally cooperate freely.

Michigan law requires a permit to be secured by those wishing to burn debris and brush or rubbish. Forest rangers issue permits for fires in National Forest areas. Permits to burn on areas other than in the National Forest area are secured from the Michigan Conservation Department.

Halt Forest Growth

The requirement that burning permits be secured before burning is not intended to prevent the forest resident's use of fire in doing his work, but rather to help the fire-fighting organization keep itself informed on the location of probable smoke and thus limit the hiring of men and running to none but bona fide forest fires.

Fires have been associated with man's habitation since earliest settlers first moved into Upper Michigan following the cutting of the virgin timber. The value of the original stand, based on today's prices, is almost beyond comprehension, and had there been no forest fires following the cutting, natural reseeding would have produced another crop of trees almost equal to the original in value by this time.

However, fires were set to clear the land, and sometimes merely as a source of amusement. No one could foresee the need for producing more trees at that time. The fires not only destroyed the trees needed for restocking the land, but also burned the humus, and baked the soil to the point where it was almost sterile and incapable of producing the original species of trees.

Recovery Is Slow

About thirty years ago, through public demand, the State of Michigan organized an effective fire-fighting force, which has been so successful that the forest land, which had been so abused by fire, was given a chance to recover. In some measure, its original fertility. Although generations may elapse before the soil recovers its original ability to produce timber, the relatively short period of protection thus far given has seen the open plains gradually reseeded with some species of forest tree.

Along with the Michigan Conservation Department, the United States Forest Service has also protected its lands within the National Forest.

There are those, particularly from the larger cities, who at times become complacent, thinking that large destructive fires are no longer possible. The records, however, show that even with all our modern equipment, such as radio, telephones, fast cars, airplanes and the like, large fires still can and still do occur. This happens when someone becomes careless and when the weather is such that fires will spread rapidly.

In 1947 a forest fire burned almost 200,000 acres in the Northeastern part of the United States, killing sixteen people and doing damage estimated at one-quarter of a billion dollars to homes, forests and public improvements. That same year a fire occurred in the southern part of the United States, destroying about 55,000

HARVESTED
Timber Land is BUSIER
than ever

IDEAS about forests have changed in the last two decades.

Most land formerly cleared by the forest industries was destined for agricultural use . . . Now the country has an abundance of farm land and the process is being reversed. Marginal acres which never should have been turned to field crops are turning into TREE FARMS.

Land which is unsuited to agriculture will produce good trees . . . and should be kept in continuous forest production . . . the most economic occupation for nearly a third of our total land area.

OUR harvested land is busy growing new trees . . . we see to it that seedlings get a good start and protection from fire and other natural enemies.

Veneer is used in the making of furniture, boxes, crates and for other purposes. As plywood, it is a major material for construction. It is one of the leading wood industries of America and furnishes millions of dollars in wages each year.

To grow trees for veneer we must protect our forest lands from fire. Because nine out of every ten forest fires in the United States are caused by people, your help is needed to stop them.

Help grow more trees by keeping fire out of our woods.

Many millions of Americans visit forest areas each year to hunt, fish, hike, camp, and enjoy the beauties of nature. Yet, in an average year careless citizens cause forest fires that leave 30 million acres burned and bare—worthless for recreational purposes.

All of us can help prevent forest fires and Keep America Green. Do your part by being careful with fire in wooded areas.

Based on past records, 48,736 persons will be rushed to hospitals today. This year 1 out of 9 persons in the U.S. will be hospitalized. That means 1 person out of your family or your neighbor's is due to become a hospital case this year or next. And 60% of those cases will require surgery. More than 35,000,000 smart persons have already taken out some form of hospital plan.

Rates Never Raised

Because the WHITE CROSS PLAN accepts only selected risks, we have never put through any general rate raise on persons enrolled, and we do not expect to. You keep the rate you start with, even if you start at the 75c child's rate; it does not increase when you become an adult as long as you stay on your original policy.

We Pay Your Hospital, Your Doctor or YOU!
It's "your money" and subject to your orders. You just tell us where to send your check.

Johnson Estate Case Opens In Special Term Of Local Circuit Court

Litigation involving administration of the estate of the late Nels Johnson opened here yesterday in a special term of Schoolcraft county circuit court.

The plaintiffs, Otelia J. Carlstrom, Nelle E. Peterson and Betsy O. Johnson, have filed a bill to determine whether certain enterprises claimed by the defendant, Gottfrid S. Johnson, are his or whether they belong to the estate of his father, of which the defendant once was administrator.

The plaintiffs are bringing suit charging fraud and misappropriation of estate funds for the purpose of imposing a constructive trust and lien.

The clearing up of holdings, assets and liabilities of the estate, which, according to the plaintiffs, amounted to $150,000 and upward, at the time of the decedent's death, promises to be one of the most involved and far-reaching cases in the history of the local court. The legal firm of Herbert & Wood represents the plaintiffs and Merrill Johnson, the defendant.

Preliminaries Take Time

All of Monday was taken up with the presentation of motions, objections and answers.

Most of the forenoon was devoted to the presentation of motions and objections relative to a subpoena issued by order of the defense, commanding the presence in court of all plaintiffs along with complete records pertaining to the case.

The plaintiffs' attorneys pleaded that the presence in the courtroom of Mrs. Betsy O. Johnson, widow of the late Nels Johnson, would work extreme hardship upon her, due to her poor state of health. The seriousness of her condition was substantiated by an affidavit made out by her attending physician, Dr. James Fyvie. The court ruled that Mrs. Johnson's presence in court, under the circumstance, would not be necessary.

Concerning the defense's request that all books, records, and other information be required, in court, the judge again ruled in favor of the plaintiff. The request was too general, the court stated, adding that the fact that the subpoenas were served only last Sunday tended to delay and complicate matters. The defense contended that the subpoenas were made out Friday, but due to the manhunt in the northern part of the county, they could not be delivered until Sunday.

The judge stated that the litigants would have about all week to try the case and that should any special data be desired or found necessary an order for its procurement would be given.

Asks Cross Bill Dismissal

The plaintiff then presented a plea to dismiss a cross bill to which reference had been made at a pre-trial conference. Attorney Herbert argued that the cross bill failed to state sufficient facts to constitute cause for action and that the matters concerned had already been adjudicated. He stated that the suit of the plaintiff is based on fraud and misapplication of funds on the part of the defendant.

Attorney Johnson in supporting the cross bill stated that two matters involved justified trial of the case by jury. These, he said, were matters of title and the issue of co-partnership. The judge took the matter under advisement and ordered that the trial of the case proceed.

History of Case

Herbert, in presenting the plaintiff's opening statement of the case, told of Nels Johnson's death on May 9, 1930 and of the appointment of Gottfrid S. Johnson as administrator on June 9 of the same year. The late Mr. Johnson left no will, Herbert said. In the intervening years, he added, the estate was administered by Gottfrid Johnson. In August, 1946, the plaintiffs, as heirs, filed a petition for the removal of G. S. Johnson as administrator, charging fraud, embezzlement, unlawful acts, mismanagement, failure to file inventory and failure to have bond renewed. The petition for removal was heard before Judge Merwin in November of 1947 and Johnson was ordered removed as administrator.

The defendant appealed the probate court ruling to the circuit court and Judge Rannels sustained the decision of the probate court.

Following the decision of the circuit court, said Herbert, Johnson filed an account which the plaintiffs, according to their attorney, have found unsatisfactory, and they have brought suit to enjoin him from transferring assets which he may have, until the final account is settled.

Herbert then read the petition for removal as set forth by the plaintiffs when presenting their case before the probate court. There were twenty-three categories of alleged fraud and improprieties in the petition.

Defense Answers

Merrill Johnson, also read the defendant's answer as presented at the probate court hearing, in which he contended that Gottfrid S. Johnson was entitled to some of the funds alleged to be part of the estate by reason of a co-partnership with his father in some of the enterprises his father had conducted prior to his death. He contended also that the estate had shrunk about $50,000 during the depression of the early thirties. He contended that Gottfrid S. Johnson had been appointed administrator at the request of his mother and that he had offered to withdraw, but had been "begged" by the members of the family to carry on. The defense stated that evidence will show that Johnson, as administrator, kept the heirs informed. The defendant has "leaned over backwards" in the conduct of these matters, said the defense attorney.

The defense's answer was a lengthy document whose reading took up practically the entire afternoon.

Introduction of evidence is expected to start Tuesday morning.

Buddy Poppy Sale Campaign Set For May 26-28

Everett N. Anderson of the V.F.W. Post 4420, has been selected to direct the 29th annual Buddy Poppy sale, to be held May 26-28, Post Commander Iver Willcock announced.

Assisting the direction of the sale will be Mrs. Mae Rosen, V.F.W. Auxiliary chairman. Mr. Anderson explained that the real job will be performed by the ladies Auxiliary who have volunteered their help in the sales work.

Anderson remarked "We have confidence that this year we will exceed our goal in the sales of V.F.W. Buddy poppies. Last year we set a quota of 2,000 poppies. This year's goal has been set at 2,500. All funds raised from this sale will be used to help destitute veterans, the dependents of disabled veterans or the widows and orphans of deceased service men."

"These benefits," he pointed out, "are extended to all needy veterans, not merely V.F.W. members."

"This year's need is urgent. We can glimpse the magnitude of the task when we face the fact that America's veteran population numbers nineteen million. The Veterans Administration cannot possibly care for the multitude of cases that come up for immediate attention. Therefore, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and other patriotic organizations, must assume the responsibility of attending to the more urgent problem."

"We ask," he concluded, "that the citizens of Manistique support the 1950 sale liberally. We hope to see every man, woman and child in Manistique wearing a V.F.W. Buddy Poppy this weekend."

HUGE PORT

Venice, commercial center of the 15th century, was the home port of 3300 ships, with a total carrying capacity of 150,000 tons, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Escanaba Bears Schedule Three Games in Week; Trenary Sunday

The Escanaba Bears are going to be a "playing" ball club. With a 5-3 victory over Gladstone already notched in the Rainbow league, the Bears have three more games lined up for the coming week.

In a twilight game, they play at Rapid River Thursday evening. Sunday afternoon they open their Rainbow league home schedule against Trenary, a team which won its opener handily. Trenary defeated Chatham last Sunday, 13-3. Lefty George Brown, Rainbow league president, served notice that his "old soup-bone" still has plenty of mastery over opposing batters.

Brown is Puzzler
Brown, who has been pitching ball almost since the Grover Cleveland administration (some opposing batters believe), has one of the biggest assortments of curves in this part of the country.

Next Tuesday night, the Bears will entertain Bark River in a twilight game at the city diamond. The three games will give Escanaba fans plenty of chance to see the Bears in action and to compare relative strength of the Rainbow, Bay de Noc and Tri-county leagues.

Bears are in the rainbow, Rapid River is in Bay de Noc and Bark River is in the Tri-county.

Need Hitting Power
Er. Louis Cappel, manager of the Bears, was pleased with their performance against Gladstone Sunday.

"The boys looked fine defensively," he said. "They played like a championship ball club in the field."

"Of course, we could stand a lot more hitting. Jim Buelow gave us power in our attack but we probably will lose him when school is out for the summer as he plans on returning to his home near Stevens Point, Wis."

"The games coming up will give us a chance to get a line on all of our material under game conditions and to give everyone a chance to play. Our aim is to give everyone a chance to play baseball. We are out to put Escanaba back on the baseball map."

Honor All Time Big Ten Greats

CHICAGO (AP)—The 50th Big Ten outdoor track meet at Evanston, this weekend, shaping up as one of the hottest feuds in conference history, will be further spiced by a salute to a half-century all-star squad picked today.

To signalize the 50-year milestone in conference track competition, a 13-man squad of all-time greats was selected by league track coaches and Commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson.

Heading the list is Jesse Owens, jet-propelled destroyer of records for Ohio State in the mid-thirties. Owens was named the world's track athlete of the half-century in an Associated Press poll.

The mythical squad, still owning 36 major track field records, was culled from more than 6,250 athletes who cavorted in Big Ten title meets since the turn of the century.

The honored athletes will be guests at Saturday's finals of the meet at Northwestern university's Dyche stadium and receive presentations commemorating their excellence.

Besides Owens, unanimously named as the Big Ten's top half-century athlete and awarded the 100 and 220-yard dash, 220-yard low hurdles and broad jump berths, the all-star team includes: 440-yard dash—Herb McKenzie, Illinois; 880-yard run—Campbell Kane, Indiana; mile run—Don Gehrmann, Wisconsin; two mile run—Don Lash, Indiana; shot-put—Charles Foville, Michigan; discus—Fortune Gordien, Minnesota; high jump—Dave Albritton, Ohio State; pole vault—Tom Warner, Nebraska; 120-yard high hurdles—Bill Porter, Northwestern; one mile relay—Illinois, 1946 (Carl Ockert, Marce Gonzalez, Robert Rehberg and Herb McKenzie).

Spilling The Dope

By Charlie Larson

We're not kicking butt, boy, how we could stand some help—especially on Monday mornings.

Here, Mr. Anthony, is our problem.

We start work at 7:30 in the morning. Our sports copy deadline is 11 o'clock. That leaves 3½ hours to get stories written, our Associated Press wire copy edited, our sport page or pages laid out and answer a half a million (seems like) telephone calls.

That, in itself, is no little chore. Or perhaps, we are just inefficient.

Where we could stand some help is a little better co-operation from managers of some of the league baseball teams.

We have three principal baseball leagues to cover in our territory. Rainbow has 12 teams, Bay de Noc has eight and Tri-county has eight.

That means before 11 a. m. Monday, we have to round up by telephone information on those games. Unfortunately, some managers are pretty elusive and 14 games (half of 28) are a lot to round up, especially when you have to put four or five long distance calls trying to locate some manager whose team lost and isn't interested in letting our readers know about it!

This holds true, too, with managers of softball teams. We are glad to get your results but, being a one-man sport staff, we have to rely on you for co-operation.

If we give you advance space to "plug" your games, we feel we are entitled to a little help in getting the results after the game.

We're interested in handling things as efficiently as possible, as expeditiously as possible and as fairly as possible to all concerned, consistent with the limited sports space we have and the ability of our composing room to set it up.

And here's a tip to sports groups. Monday is a bad day in which to get a "decent break" on advance stories because of the time and space limitations.

If you want "good publicity", get your stories in before or after Monday.

Waubung Loop Meets

George Grenholm, who retires soon as city recreation director, has been named commissioner of the Waubung Loop league.

He has called an organization meeting for Wednesday night at 7 o'clock at the home of Al Ness, 1410 18th avenue south.

Schedule will be drawn up and by-laws studied.

It is expected that there will be teams entered from Escanaba, Gladstone, Trenary, Munising, Manistique and Chatham.

Others interested may send representatives to the Wednesday meeting.

Tigers Rejoice: 'Hal Has It'

DETROIT (AP)—"Hal Newhouse has got it again."

That was the word passed around in American league circles today after the lean Detroit Tiger southpaw tossed an eight hitter against the Washington Senators to beat them 5-1 yesterday.

It was welcome to Tiger fans because Newhouse looked impressive as he went the distance against the surprisingly potent Washington club.

The good news for Detroit was marred, however, by setback elsewhere. Fireballer Virgil Trucks came up with a sore arm and faces an indefinite layoff.

Newhouse showed no signs of the shoulder injury that cropped up during spring training and sidelined him for nearly a full month of the league race.

Hal struck out Roberto Ortiz for the final out of a first inning with the bases loaded to escape unscathed and start on his way to a victory.

"That strikeout certainly was a lucky one for me because a base hit would have meant at least a couple of runs right there," said Hal after the game.

All the Tigers, from Manager Red Rolfe down to the clubhouse boys, joined in congratulating Newhouse in a joyful dressing room scene that would have led a casual observer to believe that the Detroiters had won the pennant.

"My arm didn't bother me a bit and I hope that from now on I'll be ready to take my regular turn in pitching assignments," Hal said.

Newhouse seemed to gather confidence as the game went along and was ahead of the Washington

Cuban Southpaw Beats Toledo, 6-0

(By The Associated Press)

Adrian Zabala, slim 33-year-old Cuban southpaw, topped a string of fine pitching performances in the American association Monday night by tossing a two-hit shutout at Toledo.

If you hear the football "formula" in the huddle next fall, don't jump at the conclusion they've doped out a way to beat the Bears. They're both new pappys . . . Brud Holland, Cornell's all-American footballer during the Carl Snavely regime, is due to receive his degree as doctor of philosophy at the U. of Pennsylvania this spring.

Taking head of the Chicago White Sox plight, Frank Metzinger of the LaSalle, Ill., News-Tribune figures the clocks are to blame . . . Says Frank, "the Sox are far below standard—in fact they are Onslow time." . . . Jimmy Dykes, the Athletic coach who can shoot golf in the low 70's, says he can speak from experience in predicting that the golf pros won't have an easy time in the open at Merion. It's trapped to death, says Jimmy, and "I was in all of them the other day."

Brooklyn Fan At 83

Mother of Banker Prepares to Head East To See "Her" Dodgers

Mrs. B. A. Harris of 1414 First Avenue south is eyeing airplane schedules from New York these days.

An item like that ordinarily doesn't belong on a sport page.

But, if you know Mrs. Harris and her devotion to the Brooklyn Dodgers you'll know it's a sports item.

Few women of 83 years of age possess her keen interest in sports—especially in "Dem Bums."

She listens to the radio for reports on the Dodgers and eagerly scans the sport pages for everything she can find.

Mrs. Harris, mother of Earle B. Harris, assistant cashier of the First National bank, became interested in the Dodgers through another son.

He is Dr. Bruce Harris, a physician who lives in Brooklyn, heights.

She Knows 'Em All

She has been going to New York more than 15 years to visit her son and family and she seldom goes without at least one trip to Ebbets field.

Mrs. Harris can tell you all about Duke Snider, Jackie Robinson, Don Newcombe and other members of the team.

She goes to Ebbets field as often as she can and, when she can't make it, she never misses a game over television.

Her interest in baseball stems from about 35 years ago when she and her husband used to go from Wells on the street cars to the old South park and watch Escanaba diamond aces of yesterday perform.

In a few days, she'll head for New York to see "her" Dodgers again.

How will she go?

She hasn't decided yet. But on her last trip, she went by plane and she thinks that is a lot better way to go and see a ball game than by the old Wells street car.

Bill Doucette Tosses No Hitter, Wins 15-0 In City Softball League Encounter

(By The Associated Press)
If Hal Newhouse and Don Newcombe have sore shoulders, there are a flock of strong-armed, healthy looking hurlers who would like to have some of the same.

Nothing appeared to be wrong with either of the pitching aces yesterday as each turned in a fine performance in a winning effort.

Newhouse, veteran Detroit southpaw, stopped the surprisingly potent Washington Senators with eight hits in pitching the Tigers to a 5-1 triumph. Newcombe gave a similar eight-hit exhibition against the Cincinnati Reds as the Brooklyn Dodgers won by the identical 5-1 score.

Both hurlers were plagued by ailing arms all spring. Each traced his misfortune to an aching shoulder muscle.

He Showed Plenty
Newcombe was knocked out of the box in his first three starts because of a sore arm.

Yale Expecting To Tip Spartans
NEW YORK (AP)—If any team is going to beat Michigan State out of the IC4-A track and field title Friday and Saturday, it probably will be Yale—and Eli Coach Bob Giegenback thinks he can do it.

"With a few breaks, I think my boys can score 35 points," he told the weekly luncheon meeting of the New York Track Writers' association yesterday. "And 35 points certainly should be enough to win."

Most of the Elis' strength is concentrated in the field events, what with such worthies as Jim Fuchs and Vic Frank in the shotput and discus, respectively. Fuchs should be able to grab second in the discus, too, with perhaps Dick Bowlers and Bob Spears grabbing off third and fourth.

By way of pounding a few more nails in the Michigan State coffin, George Eastment, Manhattan college coach, said he had charted the meet, and that Yale should score 37 points.

"Michigan State?"

"Lucky to score 30," said George.

TARTANS WIN
DETROIT (AP)—A forced run in the ninth inning gave the University of Detroit a 5-4 baseball win over Adrian yesterday. In the ninth Adrian pitcher Bob Brown filled the bases and walked in Detroit's Bill Smith for the clincher.

BEAT SOLDIERS
DETROIT (AP)—Wayne university, an easy mark during the first part of the season, stretched its baseball victory string to three straight here yesterday with an 11 to 3 win over Fort Custer. Johnny Hazelle hit a triple, a double and two singles in five times up. He walked once.

Hillsdale Star Gets Fordson Job
DEARBORN (AP)—Appointment of Bill Young, Hillsdale college's star athlete, as an assistant football coach, was announced today by Dearborn Fordson high school.

Young graduates this spring. Jim Vander Hull, who resigned as football and basketball coach at Grand Rapids Gwin Heights after putting his case team in the state class B finals this spring, will become head basketball coach at Dearborn Fordson. He also will be an assistant football coach under Mike Megrelian.

Dick Leahy, Fordson's head swimming coach and an assistant in football and track, moves to Dearborn high as head football coach.

Eskymos Run Into Tartar, Lose 8 To 1

Golf Tourney Wednesday At Escanaba Club

A surprise tournament has been lined up for Wednesday night of this week for members of the Escanaba golf club by Pro Dick Knop.

Members expecting to play should report to the first tee for their instructions.

Dinner will be served as usual. Knop also has worked up another surprise for Wednesday, May 31.

Regular twilight league match play will start Wednesday, June 7, said Austin Stegath, publicity chairman.

BULLETIN
MUNISING—Henry Lindeman, graduate of Channing high school and Northern Michigan college at Marquette, has been named Mather high school coach, succeeding Bob Villeneuve. Lindeman will get his master's degree at the University of Michigan this spring.

It had to come sometime and it did.

The "it" was a defeat for Escanaba high school baseball team.

Coach Jim Rouman's boys ran into a "toughie" at Iron Mountain yesterday and fell before the three hit pitching of Lammi, who already has a one-hitter to his credit. The score was 8 to 1.

Not only were the Eskymos held to three singles, but their defense fell apart behind Lefty Bob Patrick. They made five errors.

Patrick did a good job on the mound, allowing nine hits, striking out four and walking only two.

Triple Clears Bases
Unfortunately, the two walks he did issue came in Iron Mountain's big second inning in which they scored four runs.

The inning started with G. Steiner being safe on an error. Kramer walked. Cerasoli singled and with the bases loaded, Patrick walked Shields, forcing in the first run. Then Rousseau blasted a triple that cleared the bases and that was the ball game.

Iron Mountain, which is undefeated this year, added two more runs in the third and fourth innings for good measure.

Escanaba's only run came in the sixth when Warren Johnston walked, moved up on a fielder's choice and scored on a single by Dick Whitney, subbing for Charlie Olson.

Dick Johnson and Buddy Webber got Escanaba's only other hits. Lammi struck out eight and walked one.

The Eskymos play at Ishpeming Wednesday and next Monday at Negaunee.

Line score: R H E
Iron Mt. 042 200 7-8 9 4
Escanaba 000 001 0-1 3 5
Lammi and J. Steiner,
Patrick and Nyquist.

17 Americans Still In Meet

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP)—Seventeen Americans, including all of Uncle Sam's big guns, still were in the running today as the weeding-out process continued in the British amateur golf tournament.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, who took the crown here in 1948, was scheduled for his first official appearance on St. Andrews' historic old course. He was to meet Britain's A. C. G. in the second round.

The tournament favorite, Willie Turnesa, took it easy after getting a second round default. He won his opening match without loss of a hole, expelling James Knott of New York, 5 and 3.

Crooner Bing Crosby lowered his umbrella in defeat yesterday in a penetrating drizzle.

Most of the hoopla went out of the tournament with the defeat of Crosby, who lured most of the 4,000 opening day fans from the other matches.

Bing started like a prairie fire, winning the first three holes with two birdies and a par. But he faltered on the backside and lost to Jack Wilson of St. Andrews, 3 and 2.

One Cat—99 Kittens
LONG BEACH, Calif. — (AP) — Her 14-year-old part-Persian cat has given birth to its 99th kitten, says Mrs. Carl Van Steenberg.

If Annabelle—that's its name—had had a litter of three, as usual, she would have reached 100. The cat had only two this time. "But wait until next July," says Mrs. Van Steenberg. "Annabelle has two families a year, one in March, one in July."

CARD OF THANKS
 We take this means to express our heartfelt thanks for the many kindnesses, sympathy, and assistance extended to us during the illness and death of our beloved wife and mother, Mrs. Percy Owen. We are grateful to all those who sent spiritual and floral bouquets, to Father Patrick, to those who offered cars and all others whose words and acts of kindness helped us at this most unhappy time.
 Mr. Percy Owen, Hazel Erickson, Clarence, Earl, Russell, Orville, and Kenneth Owen.

Veneral Disease Problem Is Told To Escanaba Lions

Charles Pacquin, communicable disease investigator in the Upper Peninsula for the Michigan Department of Health, told the Escanaba Lions club Monday night that venereal disease control is a major problem primarily because of a lack of public education.

The speaker revealed that syphilis is a greater killer than polio and that less progress has been achieved in controlling syphilis than in any other communicable disease. It is a serious problem particularly in areas that lack an active county health department, Pacquin said.

Pacquin reported that Delta county has a good record in venereal disease control because local doctors are cooperating in reporting such cases. Prompt reporting makes possible effective control measures before the disease is transmitted to others, he said.

New treatment techniques can wipe out venereal diseases effectively, the speaker said, but the job is to locate and cure such cases promptly.

Escanabans Attend Meeting In Chicago

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Konell and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Taylor of Bells restaurant, Escanaba, who is a member of the National Restaurant association, will attend the 31st Annual National Restaurant Convention and Exposition to be held at Navy Pier, Chicago, May 23 to 26. Over 20,000 restaurateurs are expected to be there. Nearly 400 of the nation's leading food and equipment companies will exhibit in the huge 670-booth exposition.

The four-day program has been designed to interest all restaurant operators. The morning schedules include speeches and demonstrations on various phases of management, while afternoon meetings will be devoted to sessions for the different types of restaurant operators, including cafeterias, service restaurants, department store restaurants, in-flight food service, industrial feeding contractors, company operated food service directors, and college residence halls.

Other highlights will be a special luncheon for women which will be held Wednesday afternoon at the famous Tam O'Shan-ter Club, and Thursday night, the annual banquet will be held in the Grand Ball Room of the Palmer House. Entertainment at both functions will be the best in Chicago.

Angus Ward Will Speak At Hancock

HANCOCK — Angus Ward, internationally known diplomat, will speak at J. K. Nikander hall of Suomi College at 8 p. m. Tuesday, May 30, Memorial Day.

The Honorable Angus Ward recently was in the headlines for many weeks because of his detention by the communists in China. Mr. Ward formerly was a representative of the United States in Finland. Therefore, he is closely associated with the Finnish people and his message will be doubly significant in this area.

FAILING FIGUREHEADS

Ships' figureheads were discontinued with the coming of steam, which caused the old form of bow to fall out of use and the figure to become obsolete. Last ships of the U. S. Navy to have figureheads were the sloops of the Odin class, which, indeed, served with them in World War I.

And now the S. S. Wilfred Sykes is going to work...

We're grateful for your hospitality and the interest you showed in our new ore carrier. Our only regret is that we couldn't have stayed longer. But the SYKES has a job to do and it must be on its way.

As part of Inland Steel Company's program of continuous modernization, the S. S. Wilfred Sykes was designed and built to transport raw materials from ore pit to steel plant—in larger quantities—faster.

This program results in advantages to your city's industry. And to you, the ultimate purchaser of a thousand and one objects made of better steel.

We hope that you recognize the S. S. Wilfred Sykes as a symbol of Inland's desire and ability to bring you better steel products, and to offer more and better jobs to you and your neighbors.
